Senate finance unit OKs cut in income tax rates

Measure includes bonus cut for home buyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee today approved a $2 billion reduction in individual income tax rates that would give every taxpayer a $40 saving in his 1975 taxes.

The committee added the provision to a $21.3 billion tax cut voted by the House and made other changes increasing the House-passed figure to $28 billion.

The bill gives a tax cut of up to $2,000 to anyone who buys a home from April through December of this year.

Committee members hoped to give the measure final approval by tonight.

The proposal to cut one percentage point from the first four tax brackets — those applying to the first $4,000 of taxable income on a joint return — was offered by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., as relief for middle and low income families whose tax bills, in effect, have been raised by inflation.

Today's action followed approval Thursday of other tax law changes designed mainly to help large families and home buyers.

The committee agreed to raise the House-approved tax break for business to $6.9 billion by increasing the investment tax credit to 12 per cent for the next two years, and allowing a permanent 10 per cent rate thereafter.

The credit now is 4 per cent for utilities and 7 per cent for other businesses.

Committee Chairman Russell B. Long estimates that all the tax cuts in the panel's final bill will total $31.5 billion, double the amount asked by Ford and $10 billion above the figure approved by the House.

Ford, in a surprise appearance at a labor-industry banquet Thursday night, said there is "an atmosphere of compromise now" in Washington and indicated he was willing to compromise on a tax cut bill with the Democratic-controlled Congress.

"I hear America calling for reasonable action in a reasonable amount of time and I suggest tax action by the end of March this year," Ford said.

Long predicted his Finance Committee will finish writing the tax bill tonight. That would allow Senate debate to begin no later than Tuesday. This timetable would allow the Treasury to begin mailing tax-rebate checks out to every taxpayer by May 1.

The caucus of Senate Democrats agreed earlier Thursday that Congress will not start its Easter recess, now scheduled to begin March 21, until the tax cut bill is passed and sent to the White House.

The way for quick congressional action on the tax cut was cleared when:

—The Senate Democratic caucus agreed that oil-state senators should be allowed only two days to try to remove from the tax cut bill a repealer of the oil depletion allowance.

—The Senate postponed debate on an energy-conservation bill which threatened to delay action on the tax cut.

The Finance Committee voted to add these provisions to the $21.3-billion tax-cut package approved by the House:

—A 5 per cent tax credit, up to $2,000, for persons who buy a new or used house or mobile home as a principal residence between April 1, and Dec. 31, 1975. The cost: between $3 billion and $4 billion.

—Give each taxpayer the option of taking a $200-per-person tax credit instead of the present $750-per-person exemption. This would provide more benefits to families with two or more children that itemize deductions, and earn less than $20,000 a year. Under the proposal, a four-member family could deduct $800 from its tax bill instead of $3,000 from its taxable income.

Cage star Bill Walton quizzed in Hearst case

By Associated Press

Developments in the suddenly-revived Patricia Hearst case today included the questioning of a professional basketball star, curiosity about a Pensylvania farmhouse where the fugitive heiress may have hidden out last fall and a newspaper report that the FBI has shifted its search efforts to Las Vegas in recent weeks.

Miss Hearst, kidnaped by the Symbionese Liberation Army Feb. 4, 1974, was last heard from June 7 after she had publicly joined her captors and gone into hiding with the last known survivors of the SLA.

Although there were hundreds of reports of sightings since then, her reported presence in Pennsylvania is the most solid lead yet to surface on her whereabouts. One newspaper reported that her fingerprints were found there, and a federal grand jury Thursday launched an investigation into the matter.

Bill Walton, rookie star center for the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association, was questioned in San Francisco on Wednesday by the FBI in connection with the Hearst case, his attorney said today.

"Bill has been cooperative, but he couldn't tell them anything because he doesn't know anything," Charles Garry said. "He and the Scotts are friends, but he hasn't seen them for several weeks and he knows nothing about the SLA or Patricia Hearst."

The Scotts are former college athletic director Jack Scott and his wife, who had been living with Walton near Portland, Ore. Published reports alleged that Scott had been in contact with Miss Hearst and may even be with her now.

In Canaan, Pa., where Miss Hearst and three others were reported to have hidden out last fall, several neighbors said they had been questioned by the FBI about the house and its occupants, but none of them said they could identify any of them as Miss Hearst.

The Chicago Tribune reported that the FBI had stepped up its investigations for new clues in the Las Vegas area during the last three weeks after receiving reports that Miss Hearst may have returned there after leaving Pennsylvania late last year.

The newspaper quoted unnamed sources as saying that Miss Hearst was believed to have spent last summer in the Las Vegas area and had been sent to Pennsylvania by an underground contact.

Walton's connection with the case apparently stemmed from his acquaintance with Scott.

Garry said Walton was asked during the FBI interview whether Scott had ever mentioned Miss Hearst, and that Walton replied that he hadn't. Then the FBI asked if he knew where Scott was, and he said no, Garry said.

"That was the extent of it. The whole thing took about 20 minutes," Garry said.

Walton, noted for an unorthodox lifestyle and disputes with his team, was not immediately available for comment. He is not currently traveling with the team, and a newsman who went to his home was told that he was gone at least for the weekend.

While Scott was athletic director at Oberlin College in Ohio, he increased emphasis on women's sports, eliminated all fees for sports events and hired two black coaches. After leaving the college, Scott wrote several controversial books about the sports field and was identified with player activism.

Others reportedly also were questioned about Scott and his alleged connections with Miss Hearst.

A federal grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa., heard testimony Thursday from Jay Weiner, a Philadelphia college student and free-lance sports writer who visited Portland earlier this winter to interview Walton for a story.

The Long Island newspaper Newsday said Weiner, who attended Oberline from 1972-1974 and worked as a student intern for the paper, told them he had been questioned by the FBI about Scott prior to his grand jury appearance.

The grand jury recessed Thursday without returning an indictment and was expected to reconvene in about a month.

Clear through Saturday, but new storm on way

Valley residents were greeted by a clear sky this morning after overnight rain soaked the area to conclude a week of mostly unsettled weather.

Fair weather is predicted for today and Saturday, but a storm is developing in the Gulf of Alaska which may bring more rain to the Southland Sunday, according to the weatherman.

The showers brought up to a half-inch of rain to the foothill communities and nearly a foot of fresh snow to Mt. Baldy resorts.

More than 2½ feet of snow is on the ground at Snow Crest Lodge along the 6,200-foot elevation. Up to 10 feet of snow is reported in the canyons.

Although mountain roads remain slippery, lodge operators said they expected the capacity crowd of 20,000 to visit the Baldy resorts Saturday. Because of limited parking, forest rangers allow only 5,000 vehicles to go past the Ice House in that area.

Night temperatures remained below normal. A low of 34 was recorded in Pomona this morning, and only 37 is expected tonight.

Ice and snow hampered a rescue operation early this morning in the mountains.

A search and rescue team was called into action about 3 a.m. when heavy snow and ice prevented sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen from aiding a pneumonia victim in a Mt. Baldy cabin.

According to sheriff's deputies, Mrs. Ernest Porter reported that her husband was seriously ill with pneumonia and she was unable to drive her car out of the 18 inches of snow surrounding their cabin at Manker Flats, about a mile below the Mt. Baldy ski lift.

An ambulance service managed to reach the tunnels on Mt. Baldy Road, but was unable to go further because of the icy road conditions. Highway Patrolmen and sheriff's deputies reported that their vehicles could only make it to Mt. Baldy Village.

Finally, about 3:30 a.m. four men from the newly organized Service Search and Rescue Team of Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties responded with two four-wheel drive vehicles. Three hours later the vehicles managed to reach the Porter cabin and brought Porter down to the ambulance at the tunnels.

Porter this morning was listed in good condition at San Antonio Community Hospital.

Evacuation of foreigners from Phnom Penh to begin

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Australia is closing its embassy in Phnom Penh Saturday, and the French embassy is beginning an airlift next week to evacuate Europeans, diplomatic sources said today.

Other countries are expected to follow Australia's lead in view of the growing indications from Washington that the U.S. Congress is not going to vote any more aid to the Cambodian government.

Meanwhile, the U.S. airlift to the isolated capital, suspended at noon Thursday when a Khmer Rouge shell exploded an ammunition dump, resumed despite continued shelling of the field.

Police said 14 rockets and shells hit near the runway and unloading area early today, but there were no casualties, and no U.S. planes were hit.

The airlift usually operates about 40 flights a day, bringing in more than 1,000 tons of rice, fuel and ammunition, sources said. But half of them were canceled Thursday when about 100 tons of ammunition the airlift had brought in earlier went up.

The Cambodian command claimed that 21 Khmer Rouge were killed by government forces northwest of the airport who for two weeks have been trying to push the insurgent rockets and artillery out of range of the field. About 4,000 Khmer Rouge are believed to be in the area five miles northwest of the airport, but only about 2,000 government troops are taking part in the operation.

The Australian embassy is the first foreign mission in Phnom Penh to close, although most others have reduced their personnel and sent families of their staff members out of the country.

Chain might close about 1,200 stores

NEW YORK (AP) — Operators of the A&P food chain say they may close more than 1,200 of their 3,500 stores during the next 12 months.

J.L. Scott, the new chairman of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., said, "Phasing out these mostly small, obsolete stores is an essential first step to an accelerated program of rebuilding and updating our facilities."

Scott said it was not yet possible to determine how many of the A&P's 100,000 employes would be affected or which stores, offices and distribution plants would be shut down because lease and labor union negotiations that bear on the anticipated closings have not been completed.

Atom smasher can detect cancer earlier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two atomic scientists say they have developed a new diagnostic method that could detect cancer earlier than possible now through X rays.

The method, to be outlined at a meeting of physicists here today by two researchers at Argonne National Laboratory in Chicago, uses an "atom smasher" or nuclear particle accelerator to shoot beams of protons through an organ.

More dense tissue, such as a tumor, slows down the protons that pass through. This can be recorded electronically, allowing detection of the tumor.

"We've demonstrated that this method is more sensitive than X rays in seeing density variations in soft tissue," Dr. Ronald Martin said in an interview. He and Dr. Reed Moffett developed the technique.

Using proton diagnosis, a variation in the density of tissue of only 1 per cent can be detected, Martin said.

The method's potential is expected to be particularly appealing to cancer experts, who hope for a way to detect the small variations in density that early cancer tumors show from surrounding normal tissue.

X rays, used as a medical diagnostic tool since the turn of the century, often are limited in their ability to detect variations in the tissue of some organs.

U.S. indicts valley tax preparer on fraud charges

A 35-year-old Ontario man is one of two tax preparers indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of aiding in the preparation of false federal income tax returns.

Lee O. Green of 1549 S. Pleasant Ave., Ontario, according to Larry Campbell, deputy U.S. attorney, has been indicted on the charges following a lengthy investigation by the U.S. attorney's office and the Internal Revenue Service.

The indictment alleges that Green, during the last few years, has been preparing false income tax returns out of his tax preparation and bookkeeping office in Los Angeles.

Campbell said that Green was either exaggerating legitimate deductions or in some cases filing totally false deductions for some of his clients. Campbell said the average false claim was $200 for each of the nine persons.

Campbell said another man, John D. Jorge, 30, of Anaheim has also been indicted on 10 counts of aiding in the preparation of false federal income tax returns.

Campbell said the indictments were part of a larger investigation of private income tax preparation companies throughout the U.S. This year, the investigations have tended to "clean up" the industry, said Campbell.

Green will be arraigned before a U.S. Magistrate in the near future for setting of a trial date, said Campbell. Green is currently free on his own recognizance.

Chased on freeway, car windows smashed

Solon gets closeup on crime—he's a victim

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A state assemblyman said he was still shaking hours after three thugs chased him at speeds over 100 miles an hour from the state Capitol to his Sacramento apartment.

Assemblyman Jerry Lewis said that as he was telephoning police from his apartment, the youths smashed all of the windows of his state-leased car and looted it.

The top of the Oldsmobile convertible was slashed, and the San Bernardino County Republican's briefcase was stolen in the incident early Thursday morning.

"It was the most frightening experience I ever had in my life. This morning, when I woke up, I found myself still shaking," Lewis said.

"All over California, you hear stories of violence. I've been concerned about law and order, but I never experienced anything like this before," Lewis said.

Sacramento County Sheriff's spokesman Bill Miller said deputies arrested three teen-agers on four counts of vehicle burglary, one count of assault with a deadly weapon and one count of felony malicious mischief.

Miller said the trio — one a juvenile under 18 — are being held for investigation of three other vehicle burglary incidents in Sacramento earlier the same night and an attack on another youth with a tire iron.

Miller said the malicious mischief count is a felony because the damage to Lewis' car exceeded $1,000. Miller identified the two older arrested men as Glenn A. Wilson, 19, and Billy R. Frambs, 18, both of Sacramento.

Lewis told reporters he was about six blocks from the Capitol en route home at about 1:15 a.m. when three youths in another car blocked his way.

After he stopped, two of the youths jumped out with what appeared to be clubs, Lewis said, and the driver held something that might have been a chain.

He said he backed up his car and then sped around them and onto a freeway, heading east.

"It was obvious they were chasing me. It was almost like a movie at high speeds — 100, maybe 120 miles an hour. It was the most frightening experience I ever had in my life."

He said he weaved in and out of traffic trying to shake his pursuers and then made a last-minute turn off the freeway. But the youths skidded to a stop and then bounced their car across a divider and continued to chase him on city streets.

"One of them was leaning out the window and throwing things at my car and yelling at me," Lewis said.

He said he parked his car at his apartment and rushed inside to telephone police. He said he heard skidding noises and crashing sounds outside.

When he emerged from his apartment, several neighbors were standing around his battered automobile. His briefcase and other items were missing.

A security guard took the license number of a car leaving the apartment complex and deputies later made the arrests, recovering the briefcase from a trash can near the home of one of the persons arrested, Miller said.

He said the assemblyman's car had its distinctive legislative license plate, but "there appears to be no connection. It appears to be a random thing as far as their going after him."

Ex-wife in Kansas has it

Legislator given word: bring back state car

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblyman Ken Meade is going to Kansas to retrieve the state-leased car his divorced wife has been driving.

On the Assembly floor, the 36-year-old former University of California quarterback told reporters clustered around him:

"As soon as I am able to, I'm leaving for Wichita. I am going to drive the vehicle back to the state Capitol and will turn in the car keys and credit card and will operate my own car."

This was Meade's latest brush with headlines. Recently he jangled dress code-conscious legislators by appearing on the floor in a pullover sweater and slacks — minus coat and tie.

And last year, he had a brief bout with a fellow legislator that left him with a black eye.

Then a controversy erupted Wednesday when a newspaper columnist revealed Meade's former wife had his state-leased Chevrolet Blazer in Kansas — where she now lives with his two children.

Assembly leaders promptly told Meade he had to have the car back in a week. Meade reacted angrily, saying he had received prior approval to allow his ex-wife to take the car to Kansas.

It turned out a member of Meade's staff had called an employe of the Assembly Rules Committee. The committee employe said there was no mention of out-of-state travel.

Meade said Thursday: "I accept full and complete responsibility for the fact that the car is out of the state," he said. "However, I am not aware there is any violation of the law."

One of the legislature's lawyers told Meade it was illegal for a legislator to spend state money on anything but legislative business.

Loophole closing but 8 will still collect pay, pensions

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly has voted to close a loophole allowing public officials to draw retirement and salary for the same job.

But Assemblyman Tom Suitt, D-Indian Wells, said it won't stop the double checks going to eight sheriffs and other county employes who are currently taking advantage of the loophole.

In debate, Suitt said: "The loophole is a real ripoff on the public" and it has prompted "general outrage."

"The sheriff of Monterey is drawing $1500 in retirement and $2400 in salary for the same office," Suitt said.

A 74-0 vote sent the bill to the Senate.

Suitt's bill prevents an elected public official from drawing retirement benefits for service in an office while he is still serving in that post.

News accounts unveiling the fact that several sheriffs and county employes were drawing both salary and retirement prompted suitt to introduce his measure.

The bill is AB 309.

Who to lay off?

Teaching battle looms: seniority vs. minorities

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State school officials and minority hiring programs may be on a collision course with teachers' groups over a proposal to weaken seniority rights.

The proposal was made to the state Board of Education Thursday by a 14-member task force studying ways for schools to cope with declining enrollment.

The task force recommended a new state law allowing districts with severe enrollment declines to keep some recently hired minority teachers when making layoffs.

"The concept of 'last hired, first fired' has serious implications when related to . . . affirmative action plans," the group said.

But board member Michael Kirst of Palo Alto predicted difficulty for any move to weaken the job protection of teachers with seniority.

"Any attempt to eliminate seniority will run head-on into opposition from teacher organizations," he said in an interview.

State schools chief Wilson Riles said he didn't think minority teachers should get blanket protection from layoffs. But he said districts should be allowed to use some criterion other than seniority.

"I would rather see districts given flexibility to lay off people on the basis of performance," Riles told reporters. "I think that would satisfy affirmative action requirements."

The state's largest teachers' group, the 145,00-member California Teachers Association, will consider the explosive subject this weekend in Burlingame.

"It's like choosing which of your children isn't going to go to college so the rest can," said CTA spokesman Duncan Sprague. "There is no good decision."

Many school districts are planning layoffs because of the per-pupil money lost from enrollment declines, which are expected to continue until the early 1980s.

Poll finds sympathy but no political backing for Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Californians are feeling a wave of sympathy for Richard Nixon, but they think he should not hold public office again, a poll said today.

"A significant change is occurring in the California public's feeling toward former president Richard Nixon," pollster Mervin Field said.

"Simply stated," Field said, "it is a mixture of a sense that justice was not done when Nixon the President escaped standing trial for his actions in the Watergate affair, and a growing feeling of compassion for Nixon the man."

The California Poll found that of 507 persons surveyed, 62 per cent thought Nixon should have been required to stand trial for crimes he may have committed while in office. But 51 per cent said he has now suffered enough. Forty-four per cent said he has not been penalized enough.

By a 79 per cent to 17 per cent margin those polled disapproved of Nixon becoming U.S. ambassador to Communist China or a similar job. Even a greater margin, 84 per cent to six per cent, said they would not vote for Nixon if he ran for U.S. Senate.

And Republicans said by a 83 per cent to eight per cent ratio that Nixon would hurt the GOP more than he would help if he became party spokesman.

Important step in ending recession

Inventories are down—a good sign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business inventories declined in January for the first monthly drop in four and one-half years, an important step toward ending the nation's recession, the Commerce Department reported today.

The biggest improvement was in the stocks of automobile dealers, which declined $387 million during the month.

Over-all business inventories were down $148 million, the first decline in inventories since May of 1970.

"I don't see how it could be interpreted as anything but good news," said a Commerce Department analyst. "It's a beginning of the adjustment process" toward ending the recession, he said.

A decline in inventories means simply that businessmen have sold more goods than they have bought. Since inventories have been exceptionally high, economists say they must be reduced before a strong economic recovery can get under way.

Inventories during January declined $848 million at the retail level and $373 million at the wholesale level.

Manufacturers' inventories, on the other hand, increased $1.1 billion.

The over-all decline of $148 million compared with an increase of $3.9 billion in December.

Even though manufacturers' inventories continued to rise, a department analyst noted that the increase was much less than the average monthly increases of about $3 billion in the past year.

Despite the January drop, inventories remained much higher than they should be, analysts said, but they cited the January decline as being proof that the adjustment process is underway.

Among retailers, inventories of durable goods — goods with a life expectancy of more than three years — decreased $413 million and inventories of nondurable goods declined $435 million.

Most of the January decrease in durable goods inventories was in the automotive area, while declines in the non-durables occurred in general merchandise and the food areas.

Retail sales rose during the month by 2.4 per cent over December, offsetting declines of six-tenths of 1 per cent at the manufacturing level and 1.7 per cent at the wholesale level.

The business inventories-to-sales ratio remained unchanged in January from December at 1.68, meaning that businesses had inventories equal to 1.68 months of sales. The ratio in January of last yearwas 1.47.

Underworld link to firm?

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Irate Nevada gaming officials are blasting the head of the world's biggest slot machine firm for links to underworld figures and sloppy business practices.

William T. O'Donnell replied Thursday that he made mistakes — during a period when Bally Manufacturing Corp. of Chicago was "growing like topsy."

State Gaming Control Board members questioned O'Donnell, Bally president, about dealings with Gerardo Catena, alleged Mafia chieftain who had a hand in pinball distribution in New Jersey, New York and part of Massachusetts.

Old Ironsides back in service; 181-year-old frigate restored

BOSTON (AP) — Old Ironsides, closed to the public for two years during a major restoration for the nation's bicentennial celebration, returns to service today, hosting tourists at a berth in Boston Harbor.

Navy Secretary J. William Middendorf was to preside at ceremonies in the former Boston Navy Yard for the reopening of the 181-year-old frigate, more formally known as the USS Constitution.

"This marks its return to service in its current mission — to represent an important chapter in American and naval history," said Lt. John Hanley, a Navy spokesman.

The sleek, black-hulled vessel is the world's oldest commissioned warship still afloat.

Its intricate rigging and masts stand in stark relief against the city's high-rise skyline. Onboard, its wide deck smells of fresh varnish and new lumber.

Although the ship is open again, restoration work continues, and the job is scheduled to be finished in June 1976.

"This is the ship's fifth major restoration," said its captain, Cmdr. Tyrone G. Martin. "We're replacing the rotting timbers, all the copper sheathing and all the planking above the waterline. We've had to redo sections of the deck and refurbish all the rigging and masts."

In all, the government will spend $4.4 million to restore a ship that cost $302,718 when it was built in 1794.

When it was built in Boston, the Constitution was one of six ships that formed the core of the original U.S. Navy. Its maiden battles were against the pirates of the Barbary State on the African coast.

But it earned its fame in skirmishes during the War of 1812. According to legend, Old Ironsides won its nickname in a fight with the British frigate Guerriere, whose cannonballs seemed to bounce off the Constitution's sides.

TWA pact approved by workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trans World Airlines mechanics and ramp servicemen have approved a new contract raising their salary more than $1 an hour and giving them $21.7 million in back pay, the International Association of Machinists said today.

An IAM spokesman said the contract, covering 12,000 employes, was approved by 73.8 per cent of the union members in voting at 36 locations across the nation over the past few weeks.

The 26-month agreement, concluded last month just before a 30-day cooling off period expired freeing the union members to strike, will raise a top-rated mechanic's pay to $7.77 per hour on May 1. Current pay is $6.60 per hour.

The $7.77-per-hour figure included a 10-cent-per-hour cost of living escalator for 1974. Another 10-cent-per-hour escalator for 1975 is expected to go into effect in Sept. 1 to bring the mechanic's pay to $7.87 per hour, tops among major U.S. airlines, a union spokesman said. That hike will depend on whether inflation continues at a high rate, however.

The union members have been working without a contract since Sept. 1, 1973. They last had a raise on Jan. 1, 1973. Negotiations aimed at a new contract dragged out over 18 months before the negotiators were able to agree on a new contract.

The agreement is retroactive to Sept. 1, 1973, and will bring the union members $21.7 million in back pay, the union said.

Health dept. fraud coverup under Reagan?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Gov. Ronald Reagan's Department of Health covered up fraud and abuses in the state's $2-billion health care system, a Senate investigator has testified.

David Vienna, a investigator for the Government Operations subcommittee, told a subcommittee panel Thursday that state health officials "created an environment that stimulated program abuse."

"They did this by cover-up of fraud and other crimes: through intimidation of lower level state employees who discovered and reported abuses, and through continuation of contracts to plans known to be in violation of the law as well as their contract plans," Vienna said.

Sen. Harry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the chairman of the panel, said at the beginning of Thursday's hearings "we hope to view California with hindsight so that we can learn. We do not want other states to repeat California's mistakes."

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has created an 80-member task force to investigate the Public Health Plan system.

Vienna told the panel that some investors made profits of up to 3,000 per cent under the PHP system by offering low-quality medical services to needy persons.

Steven M. Passin, a California deputy director of health, said other states planning similar programs should keep a close watch on the money and the contractors who do the work.

Passin told the subcommittee that early findings indicated "high level mismanagement" in the California program, including "a capricious medical audit system that utilized no guidelines" and a lack of planning.

Other states about to adopt health maintenance systems like the California program include Maryland, New York, Louisiana and Illinois.

The system was intended to reform the costly Medi-Cal program. Reagan had promised California taxpayers savings of $150 million to $300 million per year in the treatment of the state's 2.4 million poor.

But allegations of misspent money and other abuses were made shortly after the program got under way.

Under the system, the state paid a certain amount for each person in the program, and private organizations provided the medicaid services.

Among alleged abuses that became known were forgeries to get people onto PHP rolls, forgeries to get them off when they became ill, loan-sharking financial arrangements, spending of more money for administrative costs and profits than for medical care and the organization of profit-making subsidiaries under nonprofit front organizations.

A second staff investigator, Jonthan Cottin, said a five-month investigation of the system showed that in the early years under the Reagan administration, PHP "tended to encourage unethical behavior and some very bad medicine."

When investigators responded to complaints, officials called off the investigations, Cottin said. Records of complaints were "lost," he added.

Cottin said some enrollers dressed as nurses or doctors or passed themselves off as state health officials in efforts to induce the poor to sign up. Derelicts and other ineligible persons were signed up, Cottin said.

Dr. Bruce M. Frome, who headed what was once the second biggest PHP before it crumbled under scandal, said that two persons who introduced themselves as insurance enrollers signed up 20,000 persons in a 120-day period for his PHP.

Another head of a PHP described "suede-shoed consultants" who preyed on him. But worse, he said was "the unwillingness by anyone in authority to respond to the abuses."

Dr. Bernard A. Aran, of Venice, Calif, told the panel "I know ...that officials of one plan were responsible for the death of a heart attack victim because they ordered his release from the hospital after three days."

"On another occasion, an infant was brought to me. It was abvious that the child was near death. The parents told me that the officials of another plan had told them that the child was well enough to take home, but they did not believe them and took the child to my clinic. I admitted the child to the hospital because it was dying," Dr. Aran said.

Under the plan, however, Aran received no money for treating the child — who subsequently did die — because the child was enrolled in the first PHP.

$3.5 billion foreign aid okayed by House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed by a slim, 11-vote margin a $3.5-billion appropriation bill for foreign aid and related programs, after rejecting pleas for both higher and lower amounts.

The measure, for spending during the current fiscal year ending June 30, was sent to the Senate after the 212 to 201 approval Thursday. It is $2.5 billion below what the Ford administration requested and $2.3 billion less than was appropriated last year.

Maverick heads health department

A fresh approach to state health

DR. JEROME A. LACKNER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I'll take care of the human beings, not shuffle papers."

Dr. Jerome A. Lackner, the new maverick head of California's Health Department, says his will be a humane and innovative approach to handling the nation's biggest public health department.

Pronouncing himself "a lousy administrator but a very fine physician," Lackner promised to rip the "red tape and rationing" out of the $2.2 billion Medi-Cal system for the needy.

The 47-year-old internist from San Jose is the personal physician to United Farm Workers president Cesar Chavez and has marched in grape strike picket lines.

Lackner, who also holds a law degree, was named state Health Director on Tuesday by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

In an interview, Lackner promised to encourage every possible variation on financing public health care, including the traditional fee-for-service method and the Kaiser-type prepayment plan.

He also pledged to revitalize the mental health program which, like Medi-Cal, he said "has been the victim of planned destruction and planned dehumanization by the Reagan administration for the past eight years."

"I'm in for lots of anguish," said Lackner who sports a large handlebar mustache and wears a Hueiga (strike) button and peace symbol on his suit along with his stethoscope.

"I'm in for a lot of lobbying and conflict, too.

"But if you want to care for people as human beings, that's what you have to accept," says Lackner, who treats patients in a room decorated with oriental art, yoga posters, letters from Chavez and the late Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Lackner said the Medi-Cal system's red tape was created by "inhumane bureaucrats who never wanted it to work."

He said its restrictions on treatment and rationing of care "assume that everyone is evil, doctors and patients alike."

Lackner said he would try to eliminate the "prior authorization" rule that limits MediCal treatment and uses computers to make sure doctors don't over-use the system merely to earn more money.

He proposed an aggressive education campaign to teach patients not to seek care when they don't really need it.

"The main thing," Lackner said, "is not to put your own trip on anyone's head. You let everyone know just where you stand, but you don't push anyone when you're caring for their health with love."

Senior citizen director spurns federal grant

BURNS, Ore. (AP) — The Harney County Senior Citizen Program has turned down its $700 share of a grant being administered by the Portland Metropolitan Steering Committee.

The federal grant was to fight hunger.

Program director Phyllis Lissman said, "After looking over the paperwork involved and the prying questions I would have to ask old people who are just scraping by on $140 a month just so they could get one hot meal, I said, 'Forget it!'"

Dragnet for cult like Manson unit

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Police held five Californians Thursday they said are members of the Flaming Stars, a radical group which plans to finance a new government through sales of narcotics and stolen goods.

Police said 16 other members were sought in a Wednesday night dragnet but apparently they left Fort Worth "or are laying low."

Capt. G.S. Geeslin said "blueprints, plans and slogans" recovered from the group showed the group "is running parallel with the (Charles) Manson family in that they speculate on assassination and other ideas."

Geeslin said the group, which may number as many as 59 located throughout California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and Louisiana, has "families" in those states, and appeared to be an underground cult dedicated to establishment of a private government.

He said those arrested Monday during a routine theft case were the group's "elite" members and included the 25-year-old director general of the Flaming Stars and his 18-year-old wife.

Geeslin said the group is based in Tucson, Ariz., but had left California March 3 with $8,000 worth of LSD which he said was to be sold, along with items burglarized in various cities, to finance a "private government." Geeslin did not reveal how he knew the group is headquartered in Tucson or what its activities there may have been.

Geeslin said police did not at first take the group seriously but a check of names involved and other information regarding convicts in prisons from California to New Jersey led him to regard the sect as "hard core, set, determined people."

Ex-Mitchell aide given six months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frederick C. LaRue, the first person to plead guilty in the Watergate coverup and the last to be sentenced, received a six-month jail term today from U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

The soft-spoken Mississippi oil heir had pleaded guilty to conspiring to obstruct justice more than 2 months ago.

LaRue, a former close aide to John N. Mitchell at the 1972 Nixon re-election committee, had admitted accepting more than $300,000 in Watergate hush money and helping plan the coverup.

Tunney assails Ford

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., says an even greater scandal than Watergate may be "this nation's failure to come to grips with economic problems — inflation for all, unemployment for many."

Many of the nation's economic ills could be eased or cured if the Ford administration didn't hinder attempts by Congress to aid the unemployed and poorly housed as well as the average citizen, he said.

Tunney Thursday called for an immediate tax cut of $25 billion to $30 billion, President Ford's release of $19 billion in public employment funds and immediate and substantial money for public housing and employment to avoid a depression.

Reporter shield law

Cite Davis, Busch in press suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles police chief and county district attorney were named Wednesday in a suit to seek enforcement of the state reporter's shield law.

The suit, filed in Superior Court, asks that the police be prohibited from searches as outlined in the law.

The suit was filed by the Pacifica Foundation, radio station KPFK, the Reporters' Committee for Freedom of the Press, the Sigma Delta Chi Society of Professional Journalists, the Santa Barbara News — Press Editorial Employes Association, and Will Lewis, general manager of KPFK.

Named as defendants were Edward M. Davis, Los Angeles police chief, Dist. Atty. Joseph E. Busch, Deputy Dist. Atty. Stephen Trott and a number of police officers.

"The complaint seeks to prohibit searches of newspapers, radio stations and other media for evidence that might identify the source of any information intended for news publication or broadcast," said Lewis.

He said the suit also alleges that the search of KPFK last Oct. 10 was "unconstitutional and unlawful because it exceeded the scope of the warrant and police seized and took with them certain items not covered by the warrant."

The suit arises from the search of the radio station last October by police seeking a communique purportelly from the New World Liberation front claiming credit for the bombing of the Sheraton Hotels in Los Angeles and the San Francisco Bay area on Oct. 5.

Lewis is now free pending an appeal of a contempt citation before the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals. He served three days in jail on that citation.

Must be good on overbids

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South's jump to four spades was a substantial overbid. In fact most players would have passed the raise to two, but South was one of those players who felt that dame fortune would favor him.

Dame fortune did as a starter. A heart lead and heart return would have cooked his goose, but West led the jack of diamonds.

South won; played three rounds of clubs to get rid of one heart and led a trump. West won with the jack and led a heart to East's ace. East led the jack of clubs, which permitted East and West to score their ace and king of trumps separately.

Overbidders should remember one basic rule: They must play exceptionally well. If South had, he would have made his contract.

The play isn't that difficult. After running the three clubs, South should have led Dummy's last club and discarded his last heart on East's good jack of clubs.

This play of a loser would have made it impossible for the defenders to get in an overuff. In this way South would have lost only two trump tricks instead of three.

MONCKS CORNER, S.C. (UPI) — Woodrow Ayers' drug store was burglarized seven times and it cost him $7,500 in merchandise and property damage.

So he left the keys to the front and back doors hanging outside his drug store.

Beside the keys was a note explaining what doors they would open.

"Then came along some robbers who couldn't read and they chiseled their way in, taking along $2,500 in cameras, watches and narcotics," said Ayers.

The thieves also took his keys.

Artist, 101, to start all over after fire loss

ANTRIM, N.H. (UPI) — Painter John William Caughey turned 101 Friday, hours after an electrical fire turned his studio and 12 years of paintings to ashes. Caughey vowed to start again.

"It's not so bad," said his son, John Caughey Jr., 62, assistant fire chief in this southwestern New Hampshire town of 1,720.

"You've got to look at it another way, like a blessing in disguise... You keep going all the harder when things get tough."

Caughey Sr., is the oldest living holder of a U.S. patent, for a safety stepstool he designed last year.

Price fixing charge

Court got its hands on a Toyota and never let go

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., has agreed to halt an alleged conspiracy to maintain high prices on American sales of the Japanese-made cars it imports.

Shortly after the firm and its regional subsidiary for 14 Western states, Toyota Motors Distributors, agreed to a consent decree this week, the Justice Department filed price-fixing charges in U.S. District Court here.

Both the importer and the Justice Department stipulated the decree, which cannot be signed for two months, did not constitute admission of any guilt.

If approved by a judge after the public has had time to comment on it, the decree would cover all Toyota distributors in the continental United States.

Totoya Motor Sales, which in 1972 sold more than $712 million worth of cars to U.S. distributors, was charged in the complaint with conspiring to restrain unreasonably interstate and foreign trade.

Specifically, the government said Toyota dealers sold cars at prices fixed by the defendants, that retailers refrained from advertising cars at discounts and that retailers also confined their selling and advertising to assigned market areas.

The sales company is owned by Toyota Motor Co. Ltd., which manufactures the cars in Japan.

A similar complaint was filed in July 1972 against Nissan Motor Corp in U.S.A., distributors of Datsun. A consent decree was signed in that case Feb. 26, 1973.

Living fossil

Coelacanth --'it was delicious'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Expedition scientists have returned here with previously unnamed fish, two quick frozen "living fossils" and memories of a unique seafood dinner.

Dr. John McCosker, Steinhart Aquarium director, said the five-week Indian Ocean expedition netted one unnamed species which he calls "headlight fish."

"They look a little like little Volkswagen buses swimming through the water," he said Tuesday. "We finally caught some by diving down 200 feet at night."

Though scientists set out to find a live sample of the coelacanth — a fish which first swam the Indian Ocean 300 million years ago — they were only able to get two frozen specimens.

DAVID POWELL— with frozen coelacanth

McCosker said these were the first "fresh" specimens of a coelacanth, once believed to have disappeared from the earth 70 million years ago.

"Let's say the expedition was very successful, but not eminently successful," he said. "We didn't catch a coelacanth and bring it back alive."

The privately funded $50,000 expedition brought back two coelacanths caught and frozen in November 1973 by natives of the Comoro Islands, 30 miles off the north tip of Madagascar. The fish weighed 40 and 80 pounds respectively.

During five weeks on the islands, the scientists were offered a part of a coelacanth caught and frozen four years ago.

"It was frozen muscle," McCosker said. "We thawed it out, cooked it and ate it. It was absolutely delicious."

Scientists say 82 of the big bass-like fish have been caught since a Comoro fisherman tugged one into his dugout canoe in 1938.

Researchers determined that coelacanth lived during the same period as the first fish to crawl on land. For some reason, the fish did not become extinct as the dinosaurs did.

McCosker said the frozen samples will permit scientists at the California Academy of Scientists and the scripps Institution of Oceanography to study tissue and organs of this evolutionary freak for the first time.

Unlisted number

He doesn't want to pay for what Ma Bell doesn't do

COLLEGEVILLE, Pa. (AP) — "Why are people so interested in knowing what is none of their damn business?" asks Dr. F. Donald Zucker.

The Ursinus College political science professor has been fighting the telephone company over the right to have an unlisted number without being charged for it.

"Privacy is terribly important to me," Zucker said in an interview this week. I don't want to be available to the world."

Zucker says he will go to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary to avoid what he claims is an illegal 50-cent monthly fee Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania charges for an unlisted number.

He claims his constitutional rights were violated when Bell initiated the charge two years ago, because he and other customers weren't notified of a public hearing to consider the fee.

Zucker said he has had an unlisted number since 1967 because "in a spell of a few weeks, I had gotten a dozen calls — solicitations, obscene calls, drunk calls. I don't like to be disturbed to tell somebody, 'No, Janie doesn't live here.'"

Dr. F. D. ZUCKER

Bell says the charge is necessary to pay for operators required to tell callers a number is unlisted, as well as for the extra work required to keep the name and number unpublished.

Zucker said he asked that his name remain in the telephone book but in place of the number should be the word "unlisted."

He said Bell has left the suggestion unanswered.

"I suspect they simply don't like the idea of people being unlisted," he said. "They want everybody there ... everybody accounted for. This whole business of everybody having to have everything hang out ... I don't like it. I don't like this prying."

Renovation, other costs excessive

Bridges Auditorium closing down for two years; future is uncertain

Bridges Auditorium of the Claremont Colleges, for more than 40 years a cultural center for the colleges and the valley communities, will close for renovation at the end of the summer, to reopen in two years if necessary funds are raised.

The decision was made Tuesday by the Constituent Executive Committee of the Board of Fellows of Claremont University Center. The action was taken on the recommendation of the Council of the Claremont Colleges, composed of the six presidents.

Provost Howard Brooks, with the approval of the Council, has already begun a fund-raising drive with four major concurrent goals: renovation, paying off a debt on Garrison Theater so that funds previously allocated for debt service can be used to support Bridges programming, seeking endowment for long range support of the arts program and surveying the community's wants and requirements.

The cost of meeting fire and safety regulations alone would be $400,000-$500,000, according to professional and staff estimates, but modern light, sound and other equipment is urgently required, and rehabilitation of the 40-year-old furnishings will also be necessary.

"It would be foolish simply to raise funds so that Bridges could meet safety standards, then to have to close it as inoperable," Brooks said. "We have to make the auditorium more flexible in the productions it can accommodate and more attractive to audiences.

"Further, we need money to present programs of artistic and cultural worth. Almost nowhere are such attractions self-sustaining, and they have been running at deficits of $20,000 a year here, a figure which is bound to increase with inflation.

"Finally, if we want community support, we have to find out what people in this area want to see, and we'll need the services of a consultant to determine how we can best serve the people in this area."

A major foundation has already made a visit to Bridges, and the decision of its board is expected in May. Proposals to other foundations and gift sources are being prepared.

A full program of events in Garrison Theater is being scheduled for next year, so that the closing of Bridges, even temporarily, will not mean an end to the arts program for the colleges and the community.

Bonita, Claremont also involved

Pomona joins in plan to round up class cutters

Pomona schools will cooperate with Claremont and Bonita districts in "Operation Increased Attendance" targeted to begin March 31.

This program, patterned after one now in operation in the El Monte-Hacienda-La Puente-Covina area, uses law enforcement agencies to transport out-of-school youngsters to a neutral center where they are counseled then transported to their respective schools.

Kenneth C. Cooper, director of pupil personnel services in Pomona schools, said the operation is designed for children 6 through 18, but will be aimed directly at those 10 to 15 who are found on the streets during 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. school hours.

Larry Rubin, director of the Pomona Valley Juvenile Diversion Project, whose staff will be involved in the counseling and final transportation segments of the operation, said a neutral location had not yet been secured.

He told the school board Tuesday that state funding to $3,000 may be obtained to pay location and transportation costs.

Cooper said he wanted every Pomona student, parent and teacher to be aware of the program before it actually goes into effect. He said when out-of-school youngsters are found, it is the plan for officers to request identification, but to do no handcuffing or use force. Cooper said there would be no arrests or background checks made by police on children picked up. Parents or guardians of children picked up would be contacted.

Egg rancher gets fine, probation for tax dodging

A Chino egg rancher has been fined $5,000 and placed on three years' probation for understating his 1969 income by more than $94,000.

Paul C. Furman, 54, of La Palma, a former city councilman there, had pleaded guilty Feb. 10 in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles to filing the false return for 1969.

Judge Irving Hill said he did not send Furman to prison because of the defendant's record of service to the community.

Furman's false return was in connection with the wholesale and retail egg businesses he operates at 13610 Archibald Ave., Chino, and in La Palma and Long Beach.

Treasury Department Intelligence Agent Lee Bennett said the investigation into the case began in 1972 after an Internal Revenue Service agent audited Furman's 1968 and 1969 income tax returns.

Driver burned, power cut off as car hits pole

A 26-year-old Pomona man was seriously injured early this morning when his car left the road on D Street near Imperial Avenue and crashed into a utility pole, cutting off power in a large area of Ontario.

Marvin Edward Johnson of 350 W. 10th St., Pomona, suffered third degree burns on his arms and chest from an electrical charge in the broken power lines. He was listed in serious condition this morning at San Bernardino County Hospital.

Police said Johnson's car, traveling westbound on D Street in heavy rain suddenly bounced over a curb, sideswiped a utility pole and a mailbox, and finally crashed into a guide wire to another utility pole.

The power lines fell over the damaged car, burning Johnson and knocking him unconscious. Numerous burglar alarms were set off, street lights and traffic signals malfunctioned and other electrical problems were reported in the area on Holt Boulevard between Grove and Euclid Avenue, as a result of the accident police said.

THANKS FROM LADY

Theresa Werren, 13, is thanked by a small collie, named Lady, for her donation of $500 to the Humane Society of Pomona Valley. The student collected the money in a year.

Collects $500 for Humane Society

Teen-ager crusades for pets

Theresa Werren, 13, really has a thing about stray or injured animals.

In the past, she's collected four guinea pigs, four cats and two dogs and brought them home to her parents, Mr and Mrs. Richard Werren of Brea.

But Theresa didn't stop there. A year ago, she persuaded several Brea merchants to permit her to place containers for money donations in their stores, promising to service them frequently.

Over the past year, Theresa's father has brought her to the Humane Society of Pomona Valley to donate her collection to Bruce Richards, executive director.

This week, Theresa reached a milestone. Her latest donation brought the total to $500.

Richards said the funds have been used to provide veterinary care for injured animals.

Theresa plans to continue her project.

Young bicyclist seriously injured in traffic mishap

A 7-year-old boy suffered severe head injuries Thursday afternoon when he rode his bike into a Pomona intersection and was hit by a car.

The child, Sean B. Gallagher, 736 Chadwick Court, was admitted to Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit for treatment of the head injuries, a broken shoulder and broken ribs. His condition this morning was termed critical.

The motorist, Michael J. Braid, 23, 14949 Sandalwood Lane, Chino, said he was southbound in Towne Avenue when the child rode directly in front of his car from County Road.

Witnesses told police that the little boy appeared to be pedaling as fast as he could when he entered the intersection on the wrong side of the street. Police said Sean was unconscious and having difficulties breathing when they arrived. They gave him first aid until the ambulance crew arrived.

Vacant home suffers heavy fire damage

A vacant house at 2663 Barjud Ave. in Pomona suffered $12,000 damage from fire Thursday night and the windows cracked and paint peeled on an adjacent house.

Fire Chief John Fowlkes said a flammable liquid had been poured inside the house and ignited.

Southern California Edison Co. was called to cut hot wires that were seared at the rear of the burning wood frame and stucco house.

The previous occupant of the home at 2663 Barjud, Sadie Halloway, had moved out three days before.

The home at 2657 Barjud Ave. was exposed to the blaze and received an estimated $200 in damage.

D.A. urges treating violent teen crime under adult laws

Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joe Busch, speaking at a Pomona Chamber of Commerce luncheon Thursday, said he would press for major changes in the juvenile justice system.

"It's an inefficient system that just isn't doing the job," said Busch. "We have to crack down on young violent persons."

Busch said that 50 per cent of all crime in the county is committed by persons 18 and younger, and that 85 per cent is committed by persons from 15 to 29.

He told the gathering of 100 at Orlando's that he would like to see 16-and 17-year-olds treated as adults for major offenses.

"There's no concept of punishment in juvenile law. Youngsters who know how the system works are laughing at the police. And the good kids can't understand how it ever came to be this way."

Busch claimed that recent accounts of the conditions at juvenile detention centers, which shocked much of the public, were no surprise to those working with juvenile offenders.

He said that every grand jury since 1948 has recommended changes in the housing of juvenile offenders, but that those recommendations have always been ignored by the public and political representatives.

Busch said he is hopeful that the "warehousing" problems will be changed and that more juvenile courts will be placed throughout the county.

In addition to treating 16-and 17-year-olds as adults, Busch said that juvenile offenders should not be turned loose after arrest if they have committed violent crimes.

At present, he said, if a youngster is arrested for a major crime, he is often set free if he has no prior record.

He also urged that greater emphasis be placed on working with pre-teenagers who show signs of becoming problems, and hold parents accountable for their children's criminal actions.

Los Serranos residents to vote on tax plan for park

Los Serranos residents will vote May 27 on a proposed property tax override of 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation that would finance a community park and recreation center.

San Bernardino County officials plan to develop such a facility on 10 acres near the Corona Expressway that would be leased from the state Department of Fish and Game.

The tax override, if approved, would produce about $16,500 the first year. This would be used to relocate a church building from Chino, purchase card tables and pool tables, build perimeter fences, install basketball courts, and employ a parttime recreation supervisor.

Officials plan to use the Gospel Tabernacle church building at 13210 Seventh St., Chino as a community center. The county recently purchased the building and property for use as a parking lot in the Chino Civic Center.

The concrete structure has 14,040 square feet of floor space. Although built 50 years ago, the building is in "good shape," said officials.

A five-year recreation plan includes the addition of tennis courts, picnic areas, softball field and a children's playground.

The service area involved includes some 600 residents and is bounded between Pipe Line Avenue and the Corona Expressway and Merrill Avenue and the Los Serranos Golf Course.

At present, the area has no community playground except the Los Serranos Elementary School.

State Sen. Ruben Ayala had obtained permission last November from the state agency for Los Serranos residents to use the state-owned land located along the Corona Expressway between the Pomona Rincon Road and Bird Farm Road.

'Already have an extensive law'

O-M board gives view on teacher bargaining: no!

The Ontario-Montclair school board Thursday voted its opposition to collective bargaining by the state's 1.2 million public employes.

The main resolution was triggered by Senate Bill 275 which has been accepted by a joint Assembly-Senate Committee granting collective bargaining, the right to strike, secondary boycotts and binding arbitration by outside representatives.

The board's objection to the measure was based on what the resolution termed "an erroneous analogy" that likens the situation of public school employes to workers in private industry.

"We already have an extensive employer-employe relations law," read the resolution, "which applies to California schools (Winton Act) which, with certain revisions applied, could be developed into an equitable and appropriate law that would better serve the interests of the professional educator and the public."

Passage of the resolution was strongly opposed at the board meeting by Darvel Allred, president of the Ontario-Montclair Teachers Association.

"It's not a right-to-strike bill," he told the board. "Courts can issue an injunction if strikes or lockouts endanger the public health or safety. But the bill is needed because none of the other rules provide collective bargaining for public employes such as private employes have."

"The present act excludes employes from a share of decision making, which injures the community. "I suggest that a well-educated group should not be excluded."

In spite of his request that the board withdraw its motion, the trustees voted unanimously to pass the resolution urging Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and members of the legislature to turn down the Senate bill.

In other action, the board adopted a resolution identifying the particular kinds of service that may be reduced or discontinued for 1975-76 school year and the number of teachers whose services might be terminated.

Supt. Jack Jones said that the district is legally required to notify by March 15 any teacher who may not be rehired for the coming year. The notification does not mean that all who receive it are terminated — most will be rehired.

Deputy Supt. George Duerr expressed regret, as did board members, that the move had to be made, recognizing that it could have a negative effect on morale.

"We do have a serious budget problem," Duerr said, "and it could affect the personnel." He said some 62 positions are involved.

Further discussion of the proposed closing of Howard (Ontario) and Buena Vista (Montclair) was carried on by the district trustees. Duerr reported that closing Howard would save the district $84,600 the first year, and closing Buena Vista would save $25,384.

Consideration of the possible shutdown of the two schools includes a study of decreasing attendance, reassignment of the present students and teachers to other schools, busing and other matters.

Several parents in the audience protested the proposed closing of the schools because of problems of children traveling to the new schools. These included heavy traffic, lack of sidewalks, street crossings, dogs running lose and other conditions. The trustees agreed to continue study of the proposal.

The board also:

—Heard a report, illustrated with slides, by Lucile Robinson on the new math management system designed to teach the child how and when to add, subtract, multiply and divide.

—Approved on first reading a program for providing informal action and processing complaints made by citizens against district employes.

—Heard a progress report by Harnish, Morgan and Causey, architects, on the Lincoln Development Center for the handicapped, plans for which are now under review in Sacramento.

The higher math of education costs

The parents of a child now 10 years of age can expect to spend more than $30,000 for their offspring's four-year education at a state university and more than $53,000 at a private university—assuming a "conservative" 7 per cent inflation rate.

To cover the latter cost, a family would have to save more than $4,500 a year for the next eight years, based on a 5 per cent after-tax return on their savings.

"Without question, inflation has become the major factor in planning for educational expenses," says Edwin E. Gatewood Jr., vice president of the Oakland Financial Group, Inc., personal financial counselors in Charlottesville, Va., and Southfield, Mich., which made the study.

The company has assembled a table projecting the probable future costs, including room, board, tuition and miscellaneous expenses, for a four-year college education based on present costs at state universities ($4,000 a year) and at private institutions ($6,000 a year).

If the figures are shocking for a 10-year, consider what they will be for today's toddler. Again based on an annual 7 per cent inflation rate, the four-year cost of an education at a state university 18 years from now will be $56,160, requiring an annual savings, starting right now, of $1,860. If he or she goes to a private college, the cost will be $98,280 and will require an annual savings of $3,250.

Educational costs may vary, as will the return expected from investment dollars. But the point is clear that the total outlay is likely to be staggering. What may not be so apparent is that the rate of the rising cost of education may exceed the current after-tax return on savings.

In other words, even the prudent parent who is planning for his children's education may find that he is losing ground to inflation and may have to borrow, or dip into capital, to meet these costs.

Yet, says Gatewood, fewer than half his firm's clients with children under 18 have developed concrete plans for financing college costs.

The automated trough

Holy cow! Researchers with the Agriculture Department's Agricultural Research Service and the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station at Urbana have designed an electronic feed-dispensing system which they say will liberate Bossie from the hassle of struggling for her share of grain at the community trough as well as save trouble for Farmer Brown.

Each cow wears an electronic device called a transponder that fits on a neck collar. The transponder serves as a kind of "credit card" and activates a feed dispenser when the cow sticks her head into a feed trough.

The transponders are electronically tuned, or coded, to identify each cow according to her milk production. When the cow moves her neck into a loop-formed interrogator antenna to reach the feed, high-frequency radio energy flows to the transponder. The transponder's coded memory device begins to charge electronically and drives a signal generator which, in turn, causes feed to dispense slowly as the cow eats.

When the memory device is fully charged, the dispenser stops and the cow gets no more feed. With the passing of time, the electronic charge leaks off and the cow may eat again. Her ration is computed on a 12-hour basis and she may consume it in many or few installments.

The agricultural engineers have found that, with reasonably accurate calibration of the feed dispenser and transponder, they can limit errors in feeding rates to within 10 per cent of prescribed allocations—better than that exercised by conventional feeding methods. Performance trials showed no significant different in milk production, whether the cows were hand fed in the milking parlor or with the electronic feeder control.

Tuna Latin style

In the last few weeks Ecuador has grabbed seven U.S. tuna clippers and it will cost the boat owners about $2.5 million to get them back. Then the U.S. government pays the boat owners so they are off the hook—and pretty soon tuna and caviar will have something in common.

Ecuador has been heisting U.S. tuna boats for some time. That nation claims sovereignty over a 200-mile limit off-shore. The question of including a uniform 200-mile limit offshore as an element of international maritime law is now being debated in diplomatic negotiations by all sea-going nations. In the meantime, the U.S., in its own interest is apparently about to join the parade to keep Japanese and Russian boats out of its Pacific coast fishing grounds.

The whole thing is a little silly but then civilized nations aren't civil to each other very much any more.

Elderly: Inflation's prime victims

WASHINGTON — The most pathetic victims of the economic squeeze are the elderly, who are described in a confidential Senate study as the nation's "most economically disadvantaged age group."

Their story is best told in human terms. From geriatric ghettos across the country, they have written to us about their troubles:

— A Miami, Fla., couple, in their early 70s, dreamed of retiring on a comfortable pension after a lifetime of hard work. Inflation has now stretched their pension check so thin that they can no longer afford the basic necessities.

—A 73-year-old Cumberland, Md., woman can't squeeze enough money from her $89 monthly pension to buy eyeglasses and teeth — "the first things that go wrong," she wrote, "as a person gets older."

—A devoted Chicago husband scrapes together his retirement pennies to buy an occasional slice of his wife's favorite imported cheese — the only luxury he permits himself.

—A Bluefield, W. Va., widow was compelled to give away her beloved pet cat because she simply can't afford to feed him.

—A Greenville, Miss., woman summed up the feelings of many senior citizens in these poignant words: "The elderly people worked all their lives, gave and gave to the government and now they are made to feel like worthless people."

Not only are a higher percentage of senior citizens already "living in poverty," according to the Senate study, but the job-pinch hits them harder than any other age group. During hard times, for example, older workers usually are released ahead of younger workers and remain longer in the unemployment lines.

The confidential background study, prepared by the Senate Aging Committee, shows that the jobless rate for workers over 45 almost doubled during the last six months of 1974. Yet "these figures really understate the true dimensions of the joblessness picture for older workers," declares the document.

Not counted in the statistics, for example, are those "who have dropped out of the labor force after prolonged and fruitless searches for work."

Others simply have been retired prematurely. For most of them, this means starvation Social Security benefits, with little supplemental outside income. "Even when benefits from other federal programs are considered," states the study, "only one out of three couples and one of six other beneficiaries have a second pension."

Their plight has worsened, of course, as the skyrocketing inflation rate has outdistanced Social Security payments. Under federal law, Social Security benefits are supposed to keep up automatically with the consumer price index. But the study declares grimly: "In the four areas where the elderly have their greatest expenditures — housing, food, medical care and transportation — the increases equalled or exceeded the overall consumer price index."

Yet President Ford's response has been to slash rather than expand federal help for the elderly. Here are his heart-wrenching proposals:

— He wants to hold down Social Security increases below the consumer price index. The law now mandates a projected 8.7 per cent rise in Social Security payments. The President would reduce this to 5 per cent. For 31 million Americans, many of them already subsisting on inadequate diets, this would mean an average $80 less a year.

— The President would like to reduce medicare outlays by nearly $1.3 billion in fiscal 1976. For ailing senior citizens, the cost of a 30-day hospital stay would jump from $92 to $375. The shocking fact, states the report, is that "the elderly now pay more in out-of-pocket payments for medical care than the year before medicare became law."

— Ford is also trying to cut $9 million from federal programs, which help senior citizens to live in their own homes. This would force thousands into cold clinical institutions.

RAY CROMLEY

An obligation to protect ourselves

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The United States does have some gut issues in Vietnam. The offshore waters reportedly have major reserves of oil. The South, at peace, has food to spare for export. Both are crucial in the free world. The South Vietnamese are an intelligent, hardworking people capable of making important contributions, especially with the educational resources this country has pumped into that small land.

But Vietnam is important to the United States for a far different reason. We have, consistently, whether in Europe, the Middle East or Asia, attempted to insure that no country take over another by force. We fought to prevent Hitler's invasion of Russia, and his attempts on England. We halted Tojo's invasion of China and Indochina. We blocked Britain, France and Israel when they united to invade Egypt during the Suez Canal crisis.

For that same principle, many Americans want to make certain Israel does not go under or that it permanently retain parts of Egypt, Syria and Jordan. It is not that this tiny country is of strategic importance to the United States. Our economic interests obviously are much more closely tied with Arab lands, where we also have close historical ties. But for reasons outlined above, it is in our interest to work for the military security of both Israel and the Arab nations, even those we regard as unfriendly. Otherwise we live in a jungle.

Vietnam, as a principle, has that same importance.

We do not argue with such vehemence against assistance to Israel even though in the end, and as a result of the Arab jack-up of oil prices, cost this nation more in dollars than the Vietnam war. And it will entail many years of suffering for the poorer families of this country.

No one now knows how to prevent nations from invading other countries, or knows for sure what effects conquering has on neighbors and the rest of the world. But it would seem logical to assume that if invasions did not pay off, there would be fewer attempts and, therefore, a more peaceful world.

We hire police to protect the home of our neighbors on the theory this protects our own as well. Men will argue logically that we cannot be the policemen of the world. But in a world where there are no police, do we fold our arms and look the other way? Does anyone believe we are strong enough to be immune to what happens on other continents? The oil embargo and price hikes have shown us we are not.

The oil cartel will fall apart some day. But we shall not be independent, nevertheless. We shall not in our lifetime be self-sufficient in energy—or in a host of other essential resources.

This is not to argue for all the arms President Ford is asking for Vietnam and Cambodia. It is difficult, in fact, to know how effective our aid is. Rather, it is to say we have a continuing important national interst in Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos and Thailand.

My Vietnamese sources say that more important than the amount of money sent them is a continuing assurance this country will not let them down. Their belief in us is necessary if they are not to give up hope. In that regard, I am told, $50 million may be as important as $300 million.

My own feeling is that we are approaching this problem from the wrong end. The need is not arms for the South but rather the necessity of reducing munitions sent to North Vietnam by Russia and China. If supplies to both Hanoi and Saigon could be cut to a trickle, then we could say to the South Vietnamese, in all honesty, "Handle your own affairs."

The Chinese, beset with the Russian threat and caught up in internal struggles deeper than the superficial reports coming out of that secretive land, have need of this country. So do the Soviets, whose economy is in sad shape and who have worries of their own about Peking.

They should be asked to pay a fair price—including a shut-off of military supplies to Hanoi in return for a U.S. shut-off to Saigon.

Ban criminals, not guns

It is appalling to me to see that so many people in this country are naive enough to believe that the solution to crime is to ban guns or ammunition! It is a simple fact: Guns don't kill people, PEOPLE kill people!

According to the U.S. News and World Report figures, only ¼ of 1 percent of the 40 million handguns owned in this country were used in homicides in 1974. How come there weren't 40 million homicides? Because guns don't kill people, PEOPLE kill people.

99 percent of all anti-gun legislation is aimed at the wrong people, the law-abiding citizen. Do you honestly believe that a thief or murderer is going to register his gun or turn it over to the authorities if guns were banned? Do you honestly believe that a thief or murderer is going to go down to the local sporting goods store, fill out a Federal questionaire and provide adequate identification so that his criminal record can be checked, and then wait a week in the case of a handgun; all of this just to buy a gun?

If you believe all that, you'll probably also believe that the best defense against a thief or murderer or rapist, should you encounter one in your own home, is a telephone on the night stand next to your bed!

WAKE UP, AMERICA! Open your eyes and ears and most importantly you minds! The next time you sit down in your easy chair and watch or listen to the news, notice how many violent crimes are being committed and then also pay attention to how criminals are being treated by our Judicial Courts System. THAT is where the REAL problem exists, in the Judicial Process. Why not have stiffer penalties for crimes involving the use of firearms without such lenient parole provisions? Why not reinstitute Capital Punishment for capital offenses. Let's punish the criminal and protect our rights to self-defense, not the opposite! LET'S BAN CRIMINALS, NOT GUNS! — Michael Valadez, Alta Loma.

Just in jest

Sometimes the weighty decisions our Supreme Court Justices are called upon to make almost boggle the mind. But give them credit, they're struggling manfully to make sure that justice reigns supreme throughout the land. And I would be among the first to insist that Justice isn't always blind.

In fact, now that the Supreme Court is weighing the evidence in connection with the constitutionality of an ordinance banning the showing of bare breasts and buttocks on drive-in movie screens, I can see our learned justices every now and then removing the blindfolds that justice is usually depicted as wearing. — And not only are today's justices not blind but what's more they have also thrown off the shackles of old time moral concepts.

A recent Supreme Court decision ruled that school board officials could be held liable for violating two high school students' civil rights by expelling them just because they spiked the punch at a home economics tea. — Also, I am sure the country is breathlessly awaiting the court's decision as to whether or not the student body of Fontana High School was engaging in unfair business competition when it conducted a car wash to raise funds for charity. — and whether or not $6 million in damages should be awarded the car wash operator who filed the suit.

Writing skills making comeback

"No one cant rite hardly anytime." That was the headline. The story left little doubt about the matter. If you think your youngster is the only one in school who uses sentence fragments, run-ons, poor spelling and misplaced punctuation, you may find some consolation in knowing that this problem is more than an individual one; it's national.

In a recent survey of 436 colleges, the Association of Departments of English found that students are leaving high schools with a much poorer training in fundamentals than before. The survey also showed that problems aren't exclusively those of students from lower-income families. Middle-class kids are apparently affected just as much.

Nearly half the entering freshmen at the University of California in Berkeley last fall had to take a remedial English course called "bonehead" because they failed a qualifying grammar and essay test.

Most teachers seem to agree that the problem isn't a new one. It's always been there, but it's more intense and widespread than ever before and it's probably being diagnosed more energetically. Some teachers think too much television viewing is the main cause. It's probably true that young people aren't being encouraged to read, either at school or at home. One educator summed up the importance of reading this way: "Students must read well to write well."

If you'll think back to your own high school days, you probably dreaded those endless grammar drills, plotting out subjects, predicates and objects; stuffing your head with rules and exceptions-to-rules until you could reel them off from memory. This was interspersed by singsong recitations of "Evangeline" or "The Rhyme of the Ancient Mariner," the purpose for which you never could define. Well, it now appears that such rigorous drills, as part of compulsory courses and coupled with a well-planned and supervised reading program, are really the key to one's ability to write clearly.

During the 1960s the foment in education didn't leave the English departments unscathed. In many states and communities compulsory English classes were reduced in number. More became "electives."

And, for many who did choose to take these courses, the choice was between such things as Creative Writing, Film Making, Mythology and Detective Story Writing. These may be perfectly legitimate subjects to study, but they should be offered after the student has a strong foundation of reading and grammatical writing—not before, or there may never be an "after." One has only to remember the standard, "Like . . I mean . . ya know, man" monosyllables of the youth of just a few seasons ago to see that the need for change is obvious.

One metropolitan curriculum director surveyed recently was concerned that students "don't zero in on a real, solid academic core." But, a representative of the Modern Language Association—an organization of college English teachers—sees some hopeful signs.

She observes that all over the country English professors are reporting that students are becoming goal-oriented again and that they're asking for English courses that focus on essential writing skills. As she puts it, there is a shift away from "the touch-feely stage, the love-everybody-and-good-writing-will-result" days.

Amen to that! Maybe the advocates of plain old "readin' and writin'" were correct after all. In another decade or so we may finally be turning out more students who can organize a sentence properly than cannot. And, with plenty of nudging from concerned parents and teachers, they may begin reading again, too.

Apple polishing in reverse --reader gets extra order

I shopped at the Bon Marche Department Store in Tuckwilla, Wash., just before Christmas.

At that time I ordered and paid for a box of red and green delicious apples to be mailed by the store to my son in Waterloo, Iowa.

My son never received the apples and I never heard from Bon Marche. — D. W., Claremont.

You told us how much you paid for the apples and in which department you placed the order.

Two weeks after we wrote to Bon Marche, we received a copy of a letter addressed to your son saying the gift order from you had been misplaced.

Don Samuelson, assistant store manager, apologized and said another order had been placed and your gift should arrive in Iowa soon.

To prove he was sorry, he sent a gift order to you, too. How do you like them apples?

Finally they admitted it was lost. — Mrs. C. S., La Verne.

Some time ago we had a truck at a mechanic's place of business. He was going to sell it for us.

We told him we wanted $400.

A purchaser agreed to pay for it as soon as we gave him the pink slip. We still owed $250 on the truck so we paid it off and got the pink. This took a couple of months.

In the meantime this man took the truck and went out of state, either to Missouri or Arkansas.

We have written to the motor vehicle departments of both states but neither has a record of registration for the truck.

The state Board of Equalization told us to report the truck as stolen to the Sheriff's Office. That office won't do a thing. — A. D., Ontario.

It sounded like theft to us so we talked with the deputy sheriff who was familiar with your problem.

He said it was a civil case and was a year old. He claimed it was six months, not a couple, before you got the pink slip and that the purchaser had your permission to take the truck.

A charge of grand theft auto can be made only when the offense is very clearly theft, he said, because the penalty is severe and a suspect might be shot if he resisted arrest.

The deputy thought you might have a civil case against the mechanic who arranged the sale but you said you trusted him and didn't want to sue him.

We tried writing to the hold address of the man who failed to pay for your truck. He evidently got the letter because it never was returned to us but he has neither answered us or paid you.

We gave you addresses of consumer offices in Missouri and Arkansas on the chance that they may be able to help you.

"I would be disturbed at the thought of an FBI director maintaining files on specific individuals in his own personal offices with the unavoidable consequences that the files would be generally suspected of being dossiers with various connotations as to purpose or use."

ANN LANDERS

Girl not sure of child's father, but mother wants her to keep infant

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 20 and nearly crazy with worry. Please don't give me a sermon or tell me where I went wrong. You couldn't say anything to me that I haven't already said to myself.

I am nearly seven months pregnant and look like I'm ready to deliver any minute. The guy who I think got me pregnant is married. He says if I try to pin this on him, he'll go to court and prove I was promiscuous. Unfortunately, he could do it.

I want to go to a home for unwed mothers, and give the baby up for adoption. My mother wants me to keep the baby. My little sister died ten years ago, and Mom is sure God sent us this child to replace her.

What my mother doesn't know is that the father might be black. She is very prejudiced against black people and she'd probably kill me. But it would get her off my back. Should I tell her? — Trapped

Dear T.: NO. Check into a home as soon as possible. Since you've had several lovers and have no way of knowing for sure who fathered this child, don't make additional trouble for yourself. You have plenty.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law is a lovely person — don't get me wrong. But she has started something I can't seem to stop and it is creating serious problems.

Our two children, four and six years of age, are the stars in grandma's crown. She adores them. Every time grandma comes to the house (at least twice a week) she brings gifts for the children.

This has become such a habit that they expect everyone who comes to the house to have gifts for them. Several times recently they have asked friends, business associates and other relatives, "What did you bring us?"

How can I stop my mother-in-law from continuing this practice? I asked her once and she replied, "Please don't deny me this great pleasure." What now? — Sideliner Mom

Dear Mom: Get off the sidelines and into the game where you belong. Tell grandma that her great pleasure is making "gimme pigs" out of your children and you can no longer allow her to bring gifts except for birthdays, Christmas and perhaps when she returns from an out-of-town trip.

And you can do something else. Instruct your children that they are not to ask anyone, "What did you bring me?" and tell them in a way that they'll know you mean business.

Dear Ann Landers: You have always been opposed to women nagging their husbands. Well, what if his life is in danger? That is the situation in our house and I feel it is my DUTY to nag him.

Gerald is at least 60 pounds overweight, yet he drinks a six-pack of beer every night before he goes to sleep (or passes out, I don't know which). He also smokes three packs of cigarettes a day and almost burned the house down twice in the last four years. (Both times he fell asleep in front of the TV with a cigarette in his hand.)

I believe a woman is derelict in her duty if she keeps her mouth shut and lets her husband eat or smoke himself to death. Her nagging could add years to his life. — Pittsburgh Wife

Dear Wife: Who wants more years like that? Nagging a man to quit smoking or eat less has never worked, and it never will. You cannot save people from themselves.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

English pull the plug on chunnel

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

I was disappointed recently when England, that tight little isle, voted down the projected under-the-Channel train tunnel to France. The nation apparently prefers to remain an isle, and presumably also tight.

The reason Parliament last month scuttled the program for the "chunnel" was more economic than political, though what with the Common Market and other international complications, there is little love lost between France and England. The estimated cost of the 32-mile tube under the turbulent Channel water rose from $950 million to $2 billion 18 months ago and to $4.5 billion today. That's inflation.

The notion of a tunnel from la belle France to perfidious Albion had been splashing about on both sides of the channel for more than 150 years. Various English kings didn't need it to invade France from time to time, and William the Conqueror did all right going the opposite way. The Spanish Armada would have been made up of a fleet of carriages, carts, cabriolets and munitions vans. Napoleon and Hitler would have welcomed the tunnel for invading this royal throne of kings, this sceptered isle.

Last month the House of Commons, traditionally known as the skittish British, sank the latest chunnel proposal, the 36th time the issue had come before them in 172 years. The white cliffs of Dover will remain undefiled by billboards advertising Chinzano and Caporels.

Not-so-jolly old England had already started a test tunnel and had sunk $70 million into what is now the longest off-ramp in Europe. Like many other roads in England, it leads nowhere.

There were other factors besides economics that led Parliament to turn down the chunnel. William Gladstone, prime minister on several occasions in the late 19th Century, once congratulated his native land on "that streak of silver that cuts off England from the temptations which attend upon the local neighborhood of the continental nations." The temptations of nations cause sensations.

Gladstone and his heirs and consigns presumably were wary of French can-can girls, German beer and Italian wine. The French Connection would offer easy entry of exotic parfums that would have an unsettling effect on the British worker, swish fashions of haut couteur, feelthy postcards and sex-rated movies. The chunnel would give middle-class England easy access to the roulette wheels and gaming boards of Monte Carlo and the topless towers of le Cote d'Azur.

France, Basque-ing in its innocence, was apparently quite ready to take its chances with whatever England sent along — tweeds and Teddy boys, Scotch whisky, wrong-side driving, Yorkshire pudding and rock groups. Bagpipes, haggis and English tarts, pastry and otherwise, were things that 50 million Frenchmen were prepared to accept.

Pity the chunnel got plugged up. The cultural exchange would have enriched the civilized world for centuries.

High blood pressure vs. cancer fear

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I read an article that quoted from the medical journal Lancet stating that women over 50 who use reserpine related drugs for high blood pressure had a greater chance of developing breast cancer.

The article made no mention of adverse effects on males. I am a male, 45 years old, and have been taking Serpasil. Should I continue taking this drug? Is it safe?

DEAR READER — Yes, it was reported that reserpine, Serpasil and related medicines used in treating high blood pressure will increase the chances of having breast cancer. This is also true for men. But men have such a low incidence of breast cancer anyway that the increase is not of very much practical significance in men. Besides you have an advantage, you have less to examine to detect any lump that might develop. At least that is true for most men as compared to a reasonable percentage of women.

This report does not mean that either men or women taking these medicines for high blood pressure should stop them. The dangers of high blood pressure in many cases far outweigh the dangers of breast cancer. In women past 50, if possible, it is probably better to use other medicines when it is necessary to treat high blood pressure. However, in some cases the reserpine medicines prove to be the most effective and are needed to control excessively high blood pressure.

I have always been opposed to treating high blood pressure with medicine, except in severe cases, without first trying to improve the overall health. Many cases of mild high blood pressure do not require medicine at all, but do require that the patient get rid of excess fat and adjust the living habits.

The first step in treating anyone with high blood pressure, unless it is an emergency, is to eliminate every ounce of excess body fat that can be eliminated. Often this will lower the blood pressure to completely normal levels.

Some people who don't think they are fat actually are. A thin person may still have excess fat under the skin, as a small spare tire that can be a factor in the elevated blood pressure.

This means, though, that the patient has to change his eating habits and often improve his activity or exercise schedule. Many patients are unwilling to do this, and the doctor has to use medicines to try to keep the patients out of future trouble because they won't help themselves. No one with high blood pressure, who is taking medicine to control it, should stop the medicine on his own. The doctor has a fairly difficult time regulating the amount of medicine needed in each case. If you don't follow directions then his task in trying to help you is made impossible.

I would think that the problem of possible breast cancer in you or in other men is not very important, and you should continue your medicine as your doctor advises. It won't hurt to check your breasts once in a while for any small lump.

Women on these medicines should get their doctors' opinion for their individual problem. And, certainly womewn should be extra diligent in checking their breasts and having regular checkups.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 155, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to the same address and ask for the "Losing weight" booklet.

How the pastor saved porcupines

Once knew a young fellow in northern Washington state who liked to kill porcupines, the savage. He lengthened the rope on the church bell so it touched the ground, then dipped the end in brine. You know how porcupines love what's salty. When the bell clanged to send him there with his gun in the night, the porcupine was gone, but the pastor wasn't. The killer of beasts dropped out of school that week. And the pastor, it was reported, inquired around as to the current price of porcupines, then ordered 100 pounds of salt.

THAT HARD LIQUOR first distilled in this world was rum.

ALMOST but not quite twice as many people every year go to horse and dog races as to auto races.

WATCHES

Q. "How come we refer to little clocks as watches?"

A. Because those old timey watchmen who used to call out "All's well!" in the night were the first to carry same.

Q. CAN an ostrich sing?"

A. Singing is no name for it, definitely not. However, its various call notes outnumber those of most songbirds.

Q. "LOUIE, HOW tall are you? How much do you weigh?"

A. About six feet and 192 pounds. That's 22 pounds over what's right for six feet, according to the specialists. Who cares? Lasagne tonight.

THE QUEEN

There has not been a single year during this century when the subjects of Great Britain have not heatedly debated whether to continue to support their monarchy. It has to be the longest running argument in the Empire. Yet surveys repeatedly show that as many as nine out of 10 people there want to keep their kings and queens in power, such as it is. Given reasons seem thin. For instance, the monarchy promotes tourism. More clearly, it's a sentimental thing of breadth and depth too great for quick explanation. Or can you explain it?

NO, VOLKSWAGEN is not the first company to come up with a car called "Rabbit." Japan's first automobile factory in 1911 turned out a quick little rig called the "Dat" meaning "running rabbit."

About this and that

It is possible that the philosophical expression which was uttered by Baron Pierre de Coubertin, founder of the modern Olympic Games—"The main issue in life is not victory but the fight, the eseential is not to have won but to have fought well"—may have done much to encourage the development of sportsmanship awards in athletics.

Car firm hikes exports to U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — Honda Motor Co. said today the company plans to increase its automobile exports to the United States from the current monthly rate of 8,000 units to 10,000 units.

A Honda spokesman said the move was prompted by greater than expected popularity of its low pollution cars in the United States, where sales of this product began in January this year.

He said Honda sold 6,800 of the 1,500 cc Civic models in the United States in February. The cars are powered by Honda's "compound vortex controlled combustion" (CVCC) engines.

Hiring shows 85 fewer Pomona school jobs

The Pomona school board has extended employment for the 1975-76 school year to 894 current certificated employes, 85 fewer positions than the figure one year ago.

They work as administrators, directors, supervisors and teachers.

The list extended from assistant superintendents Sidney Moses and Lynn Rountree to 43 pre-kindergarten employes who work in Preschool, Head Start and Children's Center programs.

It includes names of 51 identified as administrators and 800 listed only as certificated personnel.

The hiring list is down 85 positions from a year ago when the administration sent to the board for approval names of 979 certificated employes.

At Tuesday's meeting, the school board eliminated the position of assistant superintendent of personnel services and reinstated the position of personnel director which had been deleted Feb. 11.

Reinstating that position and deleting the assistant superintendent position left at 107 the number of positions eliminated for next year.

However, the school board took action Tuesday to have the administration notify an additional 73 employes they may not be rehired next year because the federal and state programs in which they are engaged have not yet been refunded for 1975-76.

Valley perjury case

Private detective found innocent

Robert O. Hatfield, an Ontario private detective, has been found innocent of a charge of perjury.

A West Valley Superior Court jury delivered its verdict last week following a four-day trial in the courtroom of Judge James Cunningham.

A complaint charging Hatfield was issued in August of last year by the District Attorney's Office after an Ontario police investigation revealed that the defendant claimed he had served a subpoena on an Alta Loma man, while the man claimed he had not.

Once a marshall or private detective serves a legal paper such as a subpoena to the person intended to be served, he must sign a legal document verifying the service. If the server did not serve the paper and claimed he did, he can be found guilty of perjury, a felony.

The jury, before delivering the verdict, noted that it believed Hatfleid had no intent to perjure himself, but had made a mistake in the service.

Defending Hatfield in the case was John Polakovic a Pomona attorney.

Again.
And again.
And again.

Western is America's #1 on-time airline for the third consecutive year.

It has never been done before. Until now.

And, frankly, we worked darn hard to do it.

Because we at Western feel that a timetable is really a list of promises. When we promise to take off. And when we promise to arrive.

Keeping those promises has made us #1 of all major U.S. airlines in on-time performance.*

Not only last year. But the year before. And the year before that.

And isn't that what flying's all about? Getting you where you're going fast. And on time.

When you fly Western, we know you'll enjoy our famous First Class Legspace that every passenger gets. And complimentary Champagne for every adult.

But we also thought you'd enjoy knowing you're flying the #1 on-time airline.

*(The C.A.B. selects the leading 100 U.S. city pairs for measuring on-time performance. We fly between 13 of these pairs, which represent 34% of our nonstop flights operated.)

The spicy ginger your mother uses to make gingerbread men comes from the roots of the ginger plant.

The finest ginger comes from Puerto Rico and Jamaica, but Africa and India are also important sources of ginger.

The ginger plant is a reedlike plant that may grow three to four feet high. Its leafy stems spring up from the knotty rootstock.

When the stems turn yellow and wither the ginger is ready for harvesting.

After the roots are dug up, they may simply be scalded with boiling water and then dried in the sun, or they may be scraped and washed before they are dried.

Dried ginger varies in color from light brown to brown.

Ginger is added, usually ground, to flavor such foods as gingersnaps, pickles and mincemeat, as well as many other foods.

And most people have tasted ginger ale, a carbonated, ginger-flavored soft drink. It is very popular.

A radio, camera, globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Pointing a finger

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Both my son and daughter have children and I feel lucky in that I have two grandsons, one in each family. I like and admire them both, but I'm puzzled because it's hard to see how any two boys could be so different in personality. They were raised just two blocks away from each other and went to the same high school.

There is only two years' difference in their ages and both came up the Vietnam war draft at about the same time. My daughter's boy seemed almost eager to serve. He joined the Marines and spent over a year in active combat, while my son's boy was a war resister and went to Canada. He is still there. He was violently opposed to the war and simply refused to go against his conscience. His parents supported his views, but my daughter's husband, his uncle, feels very bitter because he refused to fight. This is still a source of family bitterness and trouble. As a grandparent, I am caught in between.—J.F.

Dear J.F.: While your grandsons are first counsins and seem to share a similar background, the homes in which the two boys were raised are probobly quite different. It is quite possible that the fathers are just as opposite as the son they produced. Adult attitudes are formed in the home and usually result from how the parents, when they were children, behaved toward the adults.

David Mark Mantell, a clinical psychologist, conducted a study of the formative years of 25 Green Berets and 25 draft resisters, and discovered that the relationship between the fathers and son of these two groups were quite different.

Unlike the parents of the Green Berets, who generally demanded obedience and compliance from their sons, the war resisters' parents usually attempted to justify their actions and views. When the parents failed to justify their actions, they were left open to criticism, thereby proving that they were not always right. This also seemed to make them more human. The relationship between the fathers and sons of the draft resisters was generally much friendlier and closer than those between the Green Berets and their fathers.

The home atmosphere of the resisters was generally much more democratic and the families spent more time together in common pursuits than the soldiers' families. At an early age the resisters, encouraged to make their own decisions, discovered that it was possible and often correct to question authority.

There was much less violence in the homes of the war resisters than in the homes of the Green Berets, indicating that even during adolescence, the latter showed a preference for violence, tended to be more aggressive and were involved in more fights and more violent situations. These same boys, however, were generally popular in their social circles, and had little or no open conflict with their families. They conformed closely to the popular image of the clean-cut, hard-working, athletically talented, popular, all-American boy. This image contrasted sharply with their actual lives. Most were involved in numerous fights and potentially violent acts of daring.

On the other hand as teenagers the resisters defied authority more openly and showed less preference for a violent acting-out of their anger.

This study may provide an insight into the difference in your grandsons' personalities since it appears that a child raised in the more rigid, authoritarian home learns to accept and not to question authority, whereas a child raised in the more open, democratic home is more apt to challenge any tradition and to question authority.

The Engineer may, from time to time and without Board approval, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period of advertising for bids for the following purposes: (a) revising Prevailing Wage Scales, (b) clarifying or correcting special provisions, plans or bid proposal; provided, howver, that any such addenda shall not change the original scope and intent of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified of and furnished with copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.08 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department and are included in the contract specifications available at the Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

Wooden is worried about Meyers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wooden is worried and that means trouble for Michigan in the NCAA basketball playoffs.

Wooden, fearful more of complacency than anything else, put his UCLA basketball players through a strenuous workout Thursday because All-American forward David Meyers is injured, just as UCLA begins a quest for its 10th NCAA title in 12 years.

Meyers, a 6-foot-8 defensive wizard, suffered a charley horse in his right thigh three weeks ago in Seattle when the Bruins lost to Washington by 22 points. He played in three games since then but his rugged duel with Southern Cal junior Bob Trowbridge last weekend hurt the injury.

He played in that game with a large pad taped to the injury and then sustained a bruise to his left knee on one of his many trips to the floor.

The Bruins worked out at Pauley Pavilion but Meyers did not practice with the team in a scrimmage. UCLA was to leave early this morning for Pullman, Wash., for the Saturday night NCAA Western Regional game against the Wolverines, second place club in the Big Ten with a 19-7 record. Montana plays Utah State in the opening game.

UCLA and Michigan met last year in the Bruin Classic at UCLA. The Bruins won 90-70 despite the presence of Campy Russell, who has since graduated.

"But they have four players returning from that team," Wooden said before Thursday's practice, "and any team that makes it into the NCAA tournament is capable of beating any other tourney team on a given night."

Asked if he was pleased to be going into the NCAA tournament after a dramatic 72-68 victory over USC last Saturday, Wooden replied: "When we had a 15-point lead, I never expected them to catch up. And I was quite surprised when they caught up and went ahead by seven points with five minutes to go. I suppose during the game I wished we had won it more easily, but we showed great character in coming back the way we did, so in the end I guess it's better the way it turned out."

Wooden said his current team was one of his most pleasurable to coach because it was so free of hassles and off-court friction. However, he recalled the complacency which apparently set in a year ago in the second overtime of the NCAA semifinal game against North Carolina State.

UCLA held a seven-point lead with three minutes left, then played giveaway and lost 80-77, halting the Bruin string of national titles at seven in a row.

The doubleheader at Pullman is one of two scheduled for the NCAA's West Regional playoffs Saturday. Arizona State, 23-3, of the Western Athletic Conference, meets Southeastern Conference representative Alabama, 22-4, and Nevada-Las Vegas, 22-4, of the West Coast Athletic Conference plays San Diego State, 14-12, of the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference at Tempe, Ariz.

The Midwest Regional will feature games at Lubbock, Tex., and Tulsa, Okla. At Lubbock, Texas A&M, 20-6, of the Southwest Conference takes on independent Cincinnati, 21-5, and Maryland, 22-4, of the Atlantic Coast Conference tackles independent Creighton, 20-6. At Tulsa, it's independent Rutgers, 22-6, against Louisville, 24-2, of the Missouri Valley Conference and independent Notre Dame, 18-8, vs. Kansas, 19-7, of the Big Eight Conference.

Kentucky, 22-4, of the Southeastern Conference plays independent Marquette, 23-3, in a Mideast Regional game at Tuscaloosa, Ala. In the other game, it's independent Georgetown, 18-9, against Central Michigan, 20-5, of the Mid-American Conference. In the other Mideast doubleheader at Lexington, Ky., Indiana, 29-0, of the Big Ten takes on Texas-El Paso, 20-5, of the Western Athletic Conference and Oregon State, 18-10, of the Pacific-8 Conference plays Middle Tennessee, 23-4, of the Ohio Valley Conference.

Penn, 23-4, of the Ivy League plays Kansas State, 18-8, of the Big Eight and La Salle, 22-6, meets Syracuse, 20-7, in a battle of independents in an East Regional twin bill at Philadelphia.

In the other East Regional doubleheader at Charlotte, N.C., it's North Carolina, 21-7, of the Atlantic Coast Conference vs. New Mexico State, 206, of the Missouri Valley Conference and Furman, 22-6, of the Southern Conference vs. independent Boston College, 20-7.

While the NCAA teams waited to play, the teams in the National Commissioners Invitational Tournament at Louisville, Ky., started play Thursday night. Drake upset 13th-ranked Southern Cal 80-70 behind Larry Haralson's 20 points and Arizona blasted East Carolina 94-78 behind the combined 50 points of Bob Elliott and Al Fleming.

Southern Cal, considered a co-favorite with Arizona, wallowed without standout playmaker Gus Williams and fell to upstart Drake.

Elimination of the 13th-ranked Trojans was the major surprise of the day. USC had finished second to NCIT champion Indiana in last year's finals.

"It's unfortunate our season had to end this way, particularly for Gus," said a dejected Bob Boyd, coach of the Trojans.

Williams, USC's leading scorer with a 21.3 average, gingerly tested out his injured ankle before the game but found it too tender.

Drake, hitting a sensational 21 of 28 shots in the second half, sealed Southern Cal's fate with a slowdown game that produced easy baskets in the final minutes. The Bulldogs entered the eight-team tourney with a 16-10 record, identical to Purdue's as the worst mark in the meet.

Purdue and Missouri, 18-8, tangle in tonight's first game. Tennessee, 18-7, and Bowling Green, 17-9, square off in the nightcap.

New Orleans and Old Dominion advanced to the finals of the NCAA's College Division II tournament at Evansville, Ind. New Orleans upset Assumption 84-73 and Old Dominion stunned Tennessee State 77-60.

Midwestern, Alcorn State, St. Mary's and Grand Canyon advanced to the semifinals of the NAIA's tournament in Kansas City. Midwestern stopped Fairmount State 85-80; Alcorn State whipped Malone 101-87; St. Mary's defeated Winston-Salem 67-59 and Grand Canyon downed Wisconsin-Parkside 70-54.

Garey must face big center

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

LOCAL-NATIONAL
Sports

San Gabriel High basketball coach Bob Stand figures he's got the best center in the CIF 3-A division. And he probably does.

The question now is whether Garey High can handle the 6-foot-11 Ray Ellis Saturday night in the 3-A championship game at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

"I imagine Garey would try to help out against him," stated the San Gabriel skipper. "But they (Garey) have a fine center of their own. Coach (Mike) Wells will probably wait and see if David Larry (Garey's 6-6 center) can handle him by himself."

Wells thinks his jumping jack center, who picked up the nickname "Intimidator" early this season, can handle the San Gabriel High giant . . . if he stays out of foul trouble.

"San Gabriel will probably try to go to their big man," Wells pointed out. "I think David can handle him. He just has to remember not to try and block all of his shots, just try and go up with him."

That will be the most interesting matchup of the contest. What may be the big turning point in the game is whether either of the two big men get in foul trouble.

Both centers are known for picking up fouls quickly. However, both have steered clear of serious foul difficulty lately.

"Ray's been very good about fouling in the last seven or eight games," noted Matador coach Stand. "In all but one of those games he's had only one foul at halftime."

What may be another key factor in the championship game will be the two teams' defenses. Garey High uses a man-to-man defense and presses the entire game. San Gabriel uses a modified zone defense.

"I think Garey will try to press us," Stand predicted, "so we'll try to break down the tempo of the game. We're not overly quick, but I feel we can shoot with any team."

"We've been using the same offense against the full-court press and it's worked out pretty well for us," the Matador skipper added. "I really don't think Garey should press us early in the game. I heard it was more of a hinderance than a help against Los Altos."

Wells, however, thinks that maybe pressing San Gabriel could cause a few gracious turnovers.

"In the past years, San Gabriel has had the guards who were able to break the press," the third-year head coach at Garey pointed out. "I don't think they have those kind of guards this year. So we'll put pressure on them Saturday night."

The one problem with the Garey press, though, is that it's a risk and the Vikings can't afford to get anybody in foul trouble.

The San Antonio League champions will be playing without their starting forward Delbert McDonald, who underwent an operation Wednesday for a blood clot in his head caused by a small skull fracture.

That means their sixth-man, Kent Jordan, is now a starter and Victor Newton becomes the sixth man. If two of the starters get into any foul difficulty, Wells may have to go to one of the three junior varsity players he brought up when the playoffs started.

The defense Garey will be facing will be a zone which Stand put together himself.

"It's not the kind of zone that you can put down on paper as a 1-2-2 or a 1-3-1," he stated. "We've been using a match-up zone. It's my own concoction, and it's been working well for us."

As far as the individual matchups are concerned, the Ellis-Larry one will be the biggest. But there will also be another key match-up on the court.

Garey forward Gary Carpenter (6-5) will be keying on San Gabriel forward Clay Brown (6-4). Both are good scorers, but Carpenter will try to keep the San Gabriel senior from reaching his 11-point average.

Carpenter, himself, averaged little better than 15 points per game during the regular sason.

If Larry and Carpenter keep Ellis and Brown in check, Garey may not feel the absence of McDonald.

Radio station KPCS-FM (89.3), stationed at Pasadena City College will be carrying both the 3-A and 4-A championship games.

Jabbar asks to be traded, says report

NEW YORK (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, winner of the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player Award three times in his first five pro seasons, has asked to be traded by the Milwaukee Bucks, it was reported Thursday night by sportscaster Marv Albert of WNBC-TV.

"I've learned that Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has asked out of his contract with the Milwaukee Bucks," Albert said. "He says he will play only in New York or Los Angeles. Kareem still has one year left, plus an option year on his $1 million package. He is hoping his obvious dissatisfaction in Milwaukee will force a trade.

"He would prefer to come to New York and play for the Knicks, although the Nets (of the American Basketball Association) would not be out of the question," Albert added. "But the legal problems in jumping leagues would be a huge hurdle."

Albert said the Knicks have not been in contact with Milwaukee or Abdul-Jabbar "because that would be labeled 'tampering,' but it is known in basketball circles that Kareem wants out...badly. And he would be the one to force the move."

The sportscaster also said that the Lakers also would be attractive to the 7-foot-3 Abdul-Jabbar, but there is a possibility that Los Angeles would select 7-0 Marvin Webster of Morgan State, a little All-American, in the NBA draft in May.

"The Bucks are on the spot because they may be forced to trade him (Abdul-Jabbar), even though he's tied to a contract," continued Albert. "They may be forced because they know an unhappy Kareem won't do them much good, and if they're to make the trade, now would be the time to pick up heavy value."

Cleveland clings to playoff hopes

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Cavaliers are hanging by a thread to their playoff hopes and Coach Bill Fitch is looking at the dream "over my shoulder" while the Los Angeles Lakers can only look forward to next season.

The Cavaliers' 104-85 National Basketball Association victory over the Lakers Thursday night kept Cleveland one-half game ahead of the New York Knicks in the race for the wild card spot in the Eastern Conference.

"If I started worrying about the playoffs now I'd never get any sleep," said Fitch. This is the fifth year for the Cavaliers in the NBA. The first four years they finished last in their division.

The Cavaliers had little trouble with the Lakers, pulling out in front 51-35 by outscoring Los Angeles 17-2 during a five minute stretch in the second period and never lost their touch.

Fred Foster led the Cavs' effort with 20 points, while Bobby Smith collected 18.

Cazzie Russell was high for the Lakers with 23 as the Cavs ended a modest two-game Los Angeles winning streak.

"We lost the game in the second quarter," said Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman. "It's as simple as that. We couldn't make a shot then and the Cavaliers' defense was excellent. The only quarter we really played well in was the first. We couldn't find anybody out there with a hot hand."

The Lakers are in last place in the Pacific Division and their chances of making the playoffs, as Sharman said, "are very slim."

It will only be the second time in 26 years that the Lakers, the 1972 NBA champion, have not participated in post season action.

"We're not giving up," Sharman said. "Our playoff hopes are pretty slim, but we still want to win every game that we can."

The Lakers faced the Bucks tonight in Milwaukee for the third game of their three-game road trip.

Dodger pitching good, bad

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger pitching looked good and bad while the Texas Rangers looked just good enough.

Andy Messersmith started for the Dodgers in an exhibition game Thursday at Pompano Beach and worked the first four innings.

Messersmith allowed only hit and shutout the Rangers.

Then came knuckle-baller Charlie Hough, the reliever trying for a spot in the starting rotation.

Texas smashed him for eight runs and eight hits in four innings, including a four-run eighth inning, and beat the Dodgers 8-4.

Cldye Wright, Tommy Boggs and Steve Hargan held Los Angeles to five hits, including a two-run homer by Tom Paciorek and a solo homer by Steve Yeager.

The Dodgers stayed on the road in exhibition play today, visiting the New York Yankees at Ft. Lauderdale.

Kings face big weekend

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It might have been an understatement when Los Angeles Kings Coach Bob Pulford said, "This is the biggest weekend of the year for us."

As the National Hockey League season enters its final weeks the Kings are struggling to overcome Montreal and take first place in Division 3.

Now, playing without sparkplug center Butch Goring who is out with an injury, the Kings find themselves playing the Canadiens in Montreal Saturday night and the defending champion Flyers the following afternoon in Philadelphia.

The Kings blew another lead Thursday night, losing a two-goal advantage in the third period as they were caught and tied by the Detroit Red Wings, 5-5.

It was the third time in four games the Kings were tied after leading.

This time the Kings had taken a 4-2 lead on three second period goals within 2:57 before Detroit came back to take the tie on Danny Grant's 43rd and 44th goals of the season in the final period.

Pulford noted the two difficult games facing his team and said, "If we can win both games we have a shot at first place.

"We are having our troubles right now and things aren't going right. We're making a lot of mental errors now."

Pulford mentioned the Kings had lost another lead against the Red Wings and added, "We should have beaten Detroit and we didn't. It's the whole team's fault.

"It's been a long season fighting with Montreal for first place and maybe subconsciously we've let up. I hope not. We'll know this weekend."

Besides the two goals from Grant, the Wings also got a pair of goals from Michel Bergeron.

And center Marcel Dionne scored his 40th goal and added an assist for 105 points as he broke Gordie Howe's Detroit team scoring record.

Grant, Dionne and Bergeron kept the Kings from sweeping Detroit after Los Angeles had won all five previous meetings this season and the Kings threatened to complete their first season sweep since they entered the NHL.

Los Angeles had outscored Detroit 22-7 in the five earlier games and Kings defenseman Terry Harper said, "We didn't count on them getting five goals tonight, we knew we could score on them."

The Kings took a 1-0 lead on Whiety Widing's first period breakaway. After Bergeron and Dionne scored in the first period for a 2-1 Detroit lead the Kings came back in the second period with the three quick goals by Bob Nevin, Harper and Danny Maloney. Mike Murphy's shorthanded goal at 1:05 of the final period gave Los Angeles a 5-3 margin before Grant's pair of goals.

Hong vows to stop Zamora tonight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — World Boxing Association bantamweight champion Soo Hwan Hong of South Korea hasn't been noted as a knockout puncher but he vows to stop Mexico's Alfonso Zamora tonight.

They meet for 15 rounds or less at the Forum starting at 9:30 p.m. PDT and so far it's been the 20-year-old from Mexico City who has done most of the knocking out.

He's stopped all 20 of his foes in the 2½ years since turning pro, but Zamora doesn't predict any round or even that he will knock out Hong.

Zamora does point out that no one has gone the distance with him.

"He is strong and punches well," commented Hong, "but he gets hit every easily. I'll stop him within eight rounds."

The Korean, making his first fight in this hemisphere, watched movies of Zamora's three-round knockout of Jose Rosa, his latest foe.

Zamora commented, "I wish I had the opportunity to see a movie of him, but they told me there weren't any."

With a 29-2-1 record, the champion never has been knocked off his feet, but he has stopped only nine of his opponents. Where Zamora counts on punching power, the champion relies on speed and boxing finesse.

Both were expected to make the required 118 pounds without trouble at the weigh-in this morning.

Odds have been close all the way with Hong a slight favorite until two days before the fight when it was quoted at even.

In a companion feature, Zamora's tablemate, unbeaten Carlos Zarate, is a 2-1 pick over Joe Gueyara of Sacramento, Calif., in a bantamweight 10-rounder.

Champion Hong, a solider on leave of absence to defend his title, collects a $50,000 guaranteed purse for his defense while Zamora gets $10,000.

Hong makes his first title defense since he outpointed Arnold Taylor in the latter's homeland of South Africa. Taylor was down seven times in the 15-round bout.

Zamora fast has become one of Mexico's most popular boxers. He was the only Olympic medal winner for his country in 1972 winning a silver for second place in boxing.

In case the bout goes the full 15, the decision will be by the referee and two judges using California's five-point system. The winner of each round gets from one to five points depending on his showing.

A crowd of about 10,000 is expected at the Forum with the fight to be televised in Mexico and on some closed-circuit outlets in California and in Dallas, Tex.

Hong, standing 5-foot-5, is four inches taller than the challenger and he tolds a three-inch reach advantage over his stocky opponent.

Women golfers boycott tourney

HOUSTON (AP) — Members of the Ladies Professional Golfers Association tour voted overwhelmingly not to play in the scheduled $100,000 LPGA tournament here, claiming its sponsor failed to put up the prize money, LPGA executive director Bud Erickson said Thursday night.

"Due to the fact that Larry Flood and Gulf Coast Golf News have failed to live up to the contractual obligations concerning the prize purse, the LPGA today announced the decision of its membership not to participate," Erickson said.

Robby still pleased despite first loss

By The Associated Press

Frank Robinson was a loser the first time out, but he was still pleased.

"Gaylord and Jim Perry were very good," Cleveland's rookie baseball manager said of his top two pitchers, who blanked San Francisco through the first six innings. "Gaylord wasn't quite as sharp as usual, but he got the job done.

"And Jim just threw the ball in and got them out. He made it look easy."

With the Perry brothers doing their thing, Cleveland jumped out to a 3-0 lead. But the Giants battled back in the late innings and won 6-4 on Ed Goodson's two-out double in the 10th.

Robinson admitted he was surprised by Godson, a left-handed batter who is learning how to switch hit this spring.

"I thought he was left-handed, which is why I brought Dave LaRoche into the situation when I did," Robinson said.

Goodson batted from the right side and stroked LaRoche's first pitch into right-center.

"The fact is, Dave will have to face right-handed hitters in situations like that, so it didn't really matter," Robinson said.

In other exhibition games Thursday, the Chicago White Sox blanked St. Louis 5-0, Milwaukee defeated the Chicago Cubs 3-1, Texas powered past Los Angeles 8-4, Boston crushed Pittsburgh 9-2, Montrela nipped Detroit 6-5, Cincinnati edged Minnesota 3-2, the New York Yankees slipped past the New York Mets 7-6, Atlanta squeezed past Houston 3-2 in 16 innings, and Kansas City rolled over Baltimore 7-1.

Henry Aaron, returning to Milwaukee where he started his major league career, knocked in his first run as Brewer with a sacrifice fly. But it was John Briggs who powered a home run in the first and scored on Aaron's sacrifice fly before catcher Darrell Porter homered to give Milwaukee the victory.

Aaron broke in with the Milwaukee Braves, then moved to Atlanta when the franchise was shifted. He was traded during the off-season to the Brewers.

Tony Perez singled home the winning run in Cincinnati's victory, while Texas exploded for four runs in the eighth inning to snap a 4-4 tie and down the Dodgers.

The Yankees were led by Fred Stanley, whose two singles and a sacrifice fly drove in two runs, including the game-winner.

Frank White collected four hits, including a homer, and Amos Otis added a round-tripper as Kansas City snapped a 1-1 to easily defeat Baltimore.

Danny Cater and Juan Beniquez smashed home runs to lead Boston's 14-hit attack that snapped a three-game Red Sox losing streak and swamped the Pirates.

Knuckleballer Wilbur Wood and three other White Sox pitchers limited St. Louis to just two hits while Chicago scored three runs in the first five innings and two more in the final two frames.

Montreal ran its spring record to 5-1 with an 18-hit attack, including homers by Jose Morales, Pete Mackanin and Larry Parrish.

Jack Pierce's single to left-center in the 16th inning scored Biff Pocoroba from first to give Atlanta its victory over Houston.

Vida Blue was shelled for five runs in the first two innings, but Oakand came back to defeat Arizona State 10-8.

Singer tests ailing back vs. San Diego

HOLTVILLE, Calif. (AP) — The California Angels play their first exhibition game of spring training today and as Manager Dick Williams puts it, "There shouldn't be anybody who doesn't know what we want them to do."

The reason for Williams declaration is his steady stream of workouts stressing fundamentals and conditioning since spring training opened.

The Angels have even skipped the normal intrasquad camp games to concentrate on drills and will face their first game conditions today against the San Diego Padres.

An indication of Williams' intentions came Thursday when the Angels worked out for 4½ hours, their longest session of camp.

Besides finding out what all the work has accomplished, the Angels also hope to learn about pitcher Bill Singer who starts in the exhibition game today against the Padres.

Singer will be testing his back against opposition for the first time since he underwent surgery for a ruptured disc last June.

Doctors say Singer has recovered and Williams has said, "He's done everything we've asked of him and more."

If Singer's recovery is complete the Angels will have what Williams feels is the best starting rotation in baseball with Nolan Ryan, Frank Tanana and Andy Hassler.

Ryan suffered a pulled leg muscle getting out of a car earlier this week and although the injury isn't considered serious Williams said Hassler would start in his place in an exhibition game Saturday at Palm Springs against Milwaukee.

Nicklaus' woes continue as he spoils his great start

MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus failed to get it home again.

He had a good round going and couldn't finish it.

Nicklaus, who blew the title in the Jackie Gleason Classic with a collapse over the last seven holes, had it five under par and was two strokes clear of the field when he prepared to hit his second shot on the 18th hole Thursday in the first round of the $150,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

He hit it in the lake to the left of the 18th green.

It led to double bogey 6.

"I turned something exceptional into a 69," said Nicklaus. "It's disappointing. I had a chance to get a couple of shots in front and I let it get away."

Instead of a couple of shots in front, his 69 put him one behind co-leaders Gary McCord and Wally Armstrong, who matched four-under-par efforts in the gusty, whipping winds that swept the 7,028-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

Nicklaus was one stroke off the pace and tied with former Doral champion Mike Hill, long-hitting Jim Dent, Bobby Mitchell and Larry Nelson.

Lee Trevino rallied for a 70, just two shots back and in strong contention, after shooting an erratic 39 on his front side.

"I got off to that terrible start again, but I sure got the putts rolling nice," said Trevino, the winner last weekend in the Citrus Open. He needed only 12 putts on his last nine holes and dropped them from 15, 20, 25 and 35 feet.

Johnny Miller struggled to a 72 in winds he said were "the strongest I've seen since the British Open. I felt like I was in the wrong sport, like I was playing tennis or something.

"But 72 isn't disgraceful in these winds," said Miller, the young man whose record-setting exploits have been the sensation of the tour.

McCord led in the 1974 Bing Crosby and Armstrong in the Houston Open of the same year. Both let it get away. Neither has yet won.

Each had successful shots in the mini-tours-McCord won $80,000 and Armstrong $40,000 in about 18 months-before qualifying for the major tour in 1974.

Both had to scramble to get a piece of the lead after Nicklaus let it slip away from him.

Armstrong had one three-putt. He once one-putted for bogey, holing a 12 footer. He saved par from 10 feet on another one. And, on the 11th, he got it in two sand traps and still made birdie-holing a 50 foot explosion shot.

Duarte scores his 18th victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frankie Duarte, 119, Los Angeles, scored his 18th victory against one defeat when he dropped Jorge Altamirano, 121¼, of Mexico two times en route to a unanimous 10 round decision Thursday night.

Duarte punched his way past his opponent, slugging him to the canvas twice in the eighth round.

Altamirano managed to climb back up both times and battle back although he was never able to gain the upper hand over Duarte.

Swimming finals at Montclair

Records fall in SAL

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Correspondent

No one is more aware of time than swimmers!

While participants of other sports race against other athletes, swimmers race against the clock.

Twelve qualifying marks were established Thursday afternoon and seven league records fell in the San Antonio League championship swim finals held at the Montclair High pool.

Although no records fell in varsity competition, four CIF qualifying times were either equalled or bettered as Montclair's Jim Barbee sprinted to a 58.1 clocking in the 100 butterfly finals. The CIF 3-A qualifying time in this event was 59.3, in this the first year CIF swim finals will be divided into divisions.

Barbee also bettered the CIF time in the 100-yard backstroke, surpassing the 1:02.9 qualifying time with a standard of 1:02.4.

Chino's Jon Hadlich, who broke the Montclair, Upland, and Claremont domination for one event, raced to a qualifying time in the 100-yard freestyle finals with a clocking of 52.5.

The other varsity CIF qualifying spot was earned by Montclair's 400-yard freestyle relay team in a clocking of 3:31.8, just six-tenths off the SAL swim mark held by Upland (1967).

Montclair captured the varsity team scoring trophy with 330 points, followed by Claremont (264), Upland (193), Chino (157), and Alta Loma with 129 points.

Seven SAL swim records fell in the frosh-sophomore competition including eight times which qualified for CIF, which begins Wednesday, March 19 with prelims at Santa Monica High.

Upland High captured the team frosh-soph team scoring with 319 points, followed by Claremont (247), Montclair (178), Alta Loma (78), and Chino with 63 points.

Upland High's Howard Hyde and Claremont's Mike Martin each set league records and qualified for CIF in two events.

Hyde raced to a time of 59.6 in the 100-yard individual medley, bettering his SAL mark of 60.2, set a week ago and surpassing the CIF qualifying standard of 60.4. He also took first in the 50-yard backstroke bettering his own SAL standard of 28.0 (also set a week ago) and CIF mark of 28.8. His clocking was 27.4.

Martin sprinted to a 24.6 clocking in the 50-yard freestyle to surpass the SAL record of 25.0 but barely missed qualifying for the CIF, needing a time of 24.5. Later both Martin and Claremont's Jim Moore qualified for CIF in the 100-yard freestyle. Moore captured the SAL record in a time of 51.8 while Martin was second in 52.7. CIF qualifying time is 54.0.

Upland's Kenny Oakes set a new SAL standard in the 50-yard breastroke with a time of 29.9, which tops the CIF qualifying mark of 33.5 and the league record of 30.0, set by him a week ago.

Upland's 200-yard medley relay team spurted to a 1:51.2 clocking, bettering the old SAL standard of 1:56.2 held by Claremont and qualified for the prelims by three seconds.

The most exciting race was the 200-yard free relay in which three teams qualified for the prelims, all bettering the CIF standard of 1:42.0. Claremont set a new SAL mark with a 1:38.5 clocking while Upland was timed in 1:40.8. Montclair was third in 1:42.0.

Upland took the combined scoring title with 512 points.

Ganesha whips Fohi; Damien loses first

After taking a 6-0 lead through five innings, Ganesha High coasted to a 6-4 victory over host Fontana Thursday afternoon to close out its pre-league baseball campaign.

Winning pitcher Joe Jones hurled five innings of shutout ball before giving up four runs in the final two innings. He went the distance on the mound and finished the day with 11 strikeouts.

The Giants, now 3-2 for the season, opened the scoring with a run in the third inning on a double by Ralph Dudley, a sacrifice by Ron LaPere and a Fontana error.

Ganesha cashed in three more runs in the fourth on a single by Ron Rentz, a double by Jones, a triple by Dudley and a sacrifice by LaPere.

The Giants' final two tallies were recorded in the fifth on two errors and two sacrifices.

Dudley and Jim Lacy finished the day with two hits each. The Giants open San Antonio League play next Tuesday at Montclair.

In another high school baseball game played Thursday, Damien's Vince Garcia hurled a one-hitter but lost a 4-1 decision to host Nogales.

Nogales scored all four runs in the first inning on two Damien errors, a triple by Ron Martinez and a suicide squeeze bunt by Gino Gomez.

Garcia fanned nine Nobles, while winning pitcher Ernie Garcia allowed just four hits and struck out five.

National volleyball squad will face powerful Japan

LOS ANGELES — A national All-Star team has been selected to face Japan, gold medal volleball winner in the 1972 Olympics, in a special exhibition at the Sports Arena March 23.

Two members of the Los Angeles Feet of the Winston Volleyball League have been named to the team for the international contest which starts at 8 p.m.

Feet players named to the 12-man All-Star squad are Dan Patterson and Larry Vocke.

Coach of the All-Star team is Jack Henn, coach of the Winston League's San Diego Wave. Henn formerly coached at San Diego State, leading the Aztecs to national titles in 1968 and again in 1973. Suguru Furuichi of Japan is assistant coach of the All-Stars.

Japan is represented in the contest by Nippon Kokan, winner of the country's volleyball title four of the past five years. The team includes three Olympic finalists.

Prior to 1972's gold medal Olympic performance, Japan won the silver medal in 1968 and the bronze in 1964, the first year volleyball was played in the Olympics.

Other Winston League players representing the United States in the international contest are Ed Becker and John Zajec, Santa Monica-Long Beach Sails; Skip Allen and Tim Bonynge, Santa Barbara Clippers; Doug Beal, Anaheim Hamm's; and Chris Marlowe, Duncan McFarland, Byron Shewman, Randy Stephenson and Mark Warner, San Diego Wave.

Tickets for the Japan vs. U.S. match go on sale next week at the Sports Arena and at Ticketron, Mutual and Liberty Agencies. Seats are $5, $4 and $3.

The All-Stars also face the Japanese March 21 at San Diego Sports Arena.

Home & garden

Valuable new garden books from Chevron Chemical Co.

SAN FRANCISCO—Four new volumes in the Ortho Book series provide home gardeners with down-to-earth shortcuts to gardening expertise. They combine easy how-to-do-it information compiled by gardening experts with profuse full-color illustrations. Distribution is through the 35,000 retailers of Ortho home and garden products. Each book sells for $3.98.

An earlier volume, ALL ABOUT VEGETABLES, is a "best seller" with nearly a million copies sold in its first year of publication. It is still available through Ortho dealers, in regionalized editions.

The new titles are WEATHER-WISE GARDENING (Regionalized), GARDENING SHORTCUTS (Regionalized), WHEN THE GOOD COOK GARDENS, and HOUSE PLANTS INDOORS-OUTDOORS

WEATHER-WISE GARDENING is truly a "basic book" with valuable information for both the novice and the most experienced gardener.

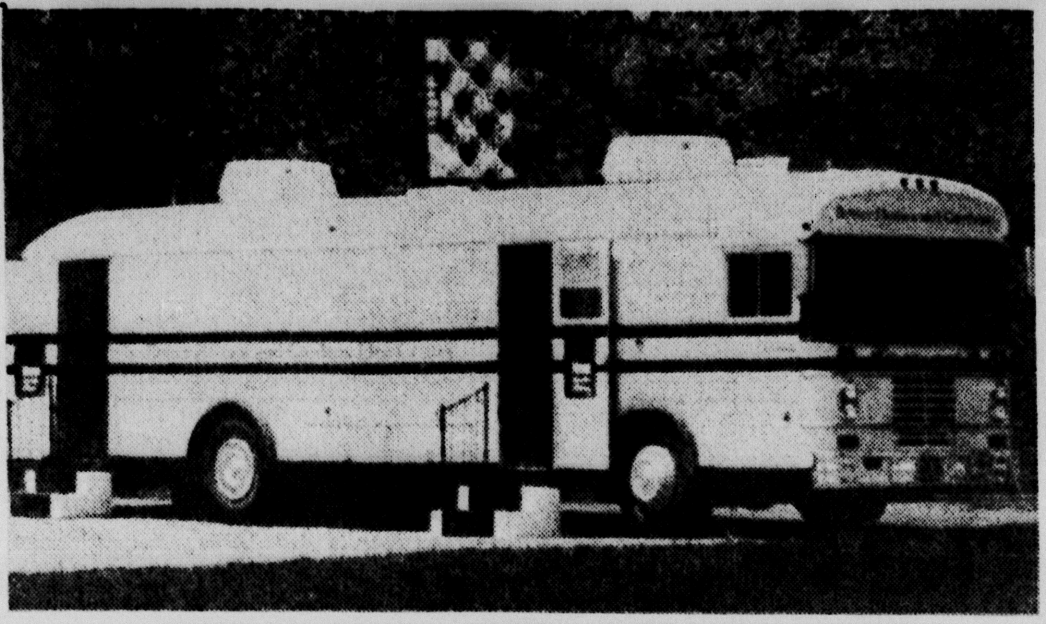
GARDENING SHORTCUTS cheerfully proclaims its intention to "remove gardening stumbling blocks before you stumble." It does just that in 100 attractive pages.

The table of contents itself is reassuring with topics such as: "Water — the hazardous necessity", "Ways to garden when there's little or no space", and "Planting dates are made of rubber". The laziest armchair gardener will want to attempt "no kneel" cultivation of flowers and vegetables in raised beds. No excuse is tolerated. SHORTCUTS tells how beds can be adjusted to "wheel chair height".

Even watering becomes fascinating through employment of workless techniques, that include "spot-spitters, drip-trickle systems, soak-oozers, and drop-in bubblers." It goes further to show how to make your own decorative garden fountains that can be tuned to emit musical sounds.

WHEN THE GOOD COOK GARDENS, a unique bonanza for gourmets and gardeners alike, encompasses in how-to-do-it style everything from "plot to pot" and "seeding to feeding". A timely tool for beating food prices, this book invites readers to "join good cooks from round the world as they grow, harvest, prepare and serve their favorite dishes."

HOUSE PLANTS INDOORS-OUTDOORS opens the door to what is probably the nation's fastest growing hobby — container plants. With its companion volumes, this Ortho Book also teaches painlessly.



BETTER HOMES & GARDENS MOBILE IDEA CENTER

Better Homes & Gardens

Mobile idea center arrives

Residents of Pomona and surrounding communities will soon be able to shop in the Better Homes and Gardens Mobile Idea Center, a brand new, custom-designed book store on wheels. This air-conditioned, wood paneled, 36-foot van is stocked with more than 60 hardbound titles from Better Homes and Gardens and Creative Home Library, plus 18 different Better Homes and Gardens magazines and Special Interest Publications.

Books featured in the traveling book store offer a wide range of how-to ideas for the home and family including books on decorating, sewing, gardening, home improvement, crafts, family health and over 30 cook books. Each visitor to the Mobile Idea Center will receive a copy of the 48-page Better Homes and Gardens cook booklet "Shortcut Cooking." A daily drawing will also be held for the new Better Homes and Gardens "Family Medical Guide" which retails for $16.95.

The Mobile Idea Center can be identified by a replica of the red and white plaid Better Homes and Gardens "New Cook Book" which revolves atop the white van. The new cook book has sold more than 17 million copies since its initial publication in 1930 and is the nation's number one best-selling cook book.

Saturday through Monday the bus will be located at Ontario News Stand. It will be at Upland News Stand Tuesday through Thursday and at Pomona News Stand next Friday through Sunday.

Treating sick plants

By JANET TARA

Plants sometimes just die. This is not easy to accept, but it happens. Most of the time, though, there is a direct cause of their expiration. Overwatering, too little light, diseases, too little water, cold, etc. are all good reasons.

The minute you suspect a plant is "sick" immediately put it in isolation to insure the continued health of other plants, particularly if the sick plant has bugs. Bugs are hard to get rid of, but it can be done.

Make sure you diagnose the disease properly to avoid the wrong treatment. If you can't determine it from books and observation, check your nursery. Follow all the necessary steps for revitalization. Most important, don't start treating the plant as if it were already dead. That is, water it, wash the leaves, make sure the light is right. All these things become more important when the plant is ailing.

Treatments may have to be repeated if the first curing attempts are unsuccessful. When dealing with insecticides and fungicides use several small doses rather than one massive dose. These poisons can kill the plant as well as the disease.

Connecticut began to earn its reputation as an insurance state more than 175 years ago. Marine Insurance, the great grandfather of all modern forms of insurance, had its start in Connecticut with coverage for ships and cargoes which sailed from the state's ports.

Scott-Heron plays at Roxy Theater

By MAE TATE

Gil Scott-Heron, playing at the Roxy Theater of Hollywood through this weekend, grabs his audience at the gut and introduces it to a vibrant and unique sound in music.

You cannot sit still, physically or mentally, when Scott-Heron starts to sing or comment on the condition of contemporary America. Brian Jackson and the Midnight Band are synchronized into the same brain wave and sensitivity of feeling.

The energy of Scott-Heron cannot be categorized musically. It is all steeped in black consciousness, designed to make all folks aware of blackness. It ranges from the nostalgic "Something To Offer You" to the desolate echo of "Winter in America" to a powerful political comment in the reading "We Beg Your Pardon, America" to pan-Africanism in "What's the Word — Johannesburg."

If your spirit is timid and your mind weak, Scott-Heron is not for you. But for the courageous and strong of soul and mind, Scott-Heron is a pleasure ad infinitum.

County pares fox bounty from budget

TOMS RIVER, N.J. (UPI) — Fox hunting in Ocean County won't bring in much money any more. Authorities have trimmed the fox bounty out of the budget.

"The $3 bounty for each fox was started years ago, back in the 1920s," said a clerk for the Ocean County Board of Chosen Freeholders. "It was started back when we had a lot of foxes threatening chicken farmers."

Now, although the county still has a few bounty hunters and a "decent number" of foxes, it hardly has any chicken farms.

"It was messy," said clerk Clara Fisher. "We not only had to process the bounty claims, but we had to slit the fox's nose so he couldn't try to claim it twice. Years back, we use to cut off the ear lobe and burn it."

During 1974, the county handed out $513 for dead foxes.
